The images of people, places and things

Colorful chrysanthemums sold by Mortar Board outside of Memorial Stadium mark the day of a game.

The images are brilliant and sharp, standing out in the enveloping haze of experience that is college life. They are poignant details etched in color on a chalk-dusted slate of memory.

Images. Trivialities of sight, sound and feeling grow and become significant, heavy with meaning, a small moment in four years that somehow will come to stand out and even symbolize the whole. They will linger.

If you ever smelled the dampness of a dorm laundry room, where collars never quite came clean, you will remember it always. Or donuts and black coffee in the Union before class.

Experiences merge. A single all-night cram session will be forgotten because there were so many of them and the stomach ached in the same sour way. Dawns characterized by burning eyes and smoke-parched throats blend indistinguishably into one.

But a racing second plucked out of the rush may have become frozen. The way her hair looked caught by the wind. Turf churned into the air by football spikes.

Images. A poem read for you by a sorority sister. Your roommate who finally met the right girl—four times during his sophomore year. A graduate student's study light on a fog-shrouded campus. Frothy beers lifted in cheer.

For each they are different and special. You remember it clearly. You even know how the sky looked.

Images. They can't be recaptured for each according to his own special lights. But your ROYAL PURPLE is dedicated to those flashing scenes. The images of Kansas State University, 1965.

Distinctive features of the Union are sales of campus groups like Delta Phi Delta's Thieves Market.

C. J. "Chief" Medlin

The 1965 Royal Purple marks the end of an era at Kansas State. It is the last book in a series of 31 published under the guidance of C. J. "Chief" Medlin, retiring graduate manager of student publications. It is dedicated to Chief.

Known in the academic publishing world for his un-equaled record of 29 All-American ratings for the Royal Purple, Chief came to Kansas from Mexico, following the revolution there. He was known as "Mex" in those days and he roamed the country, working crops and taking odd jobs. In 1914 he enrolled in the prep school at Kansas State and by 1920 he graduated from the college. He had been a debate scholar and Royal Purple editor.

In 1934, after 13 years as head of the college annual department of Burger-Baird Engraving Co., Chief returned to K-State as graduate manager of student publications. He then began to establish his unwavering record of excellence, gaining a reputation as the nation's leading authority on yearbooks.

But thousands of former K-State students remember him simply as the most principled man they ever knew, someone they could always trust to sort the right from the wrong and stick to his guns no matter what the circumstances.

Chief has always kept his door open. He sticks to what he says in one of his textbooks: "The advisor should not act as censor. If members of the staff are properly trained, they will have too much pride in their book and school to print anything that will discredit either." He always means what he says. He has always been his kind of advisor.

If Chief had to read every page of a yearbook before it went to press, this tribute would not be possible. The 1965 yearbook staff joins three decades of staff members in thanking Professor C. J. Medlin for his time, energy, trust, and most of all for his inspiring example of integrity. We dedicate this, the 1965 Royal Purple, to Chief.

C. J. "Chief" Medlin became yearbook advisor in the fall of 1934.

While attending two national conventions in Miami, Chief was part of a TV discussion panel. It was then, 1961, that Chief was cited "for outstanding service to his university's student publications and to the nation's student press."

Administration

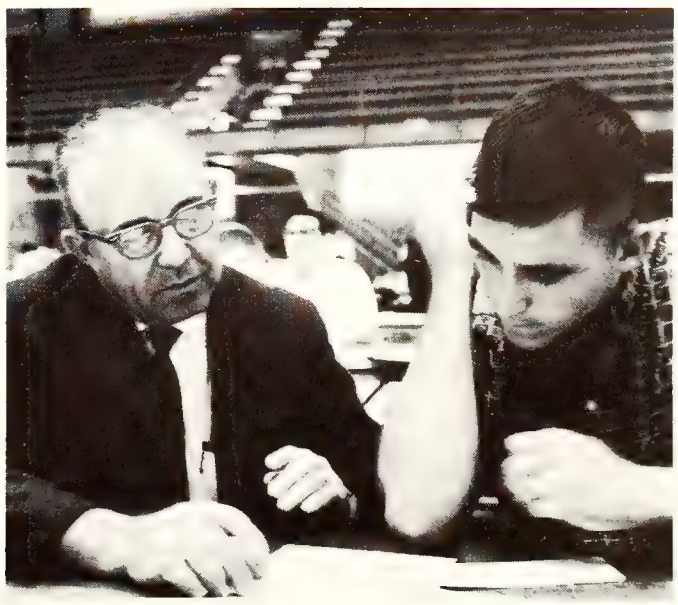
Complex, with responsibility to handle and hard work to do, the administration is behind the policies that help to form the image of the campus. Whether instructing a laboratory class in Willard Hall, working in Farrell Library, helping with the routine work of enrollment or inspecting the aftermath of a disastrous fire, instructors, deans, administrators, regents and the Governor are all involved with the campus.



James A. McCain, University president for 15 years, is a member of several national advisory committees. During the fall McCain was selected to address an annual meeting of the American Council on Education in San Francisco.

Governor William Avery, an advocate of increased state educational facilities, is a former national congressman.

Johnson names McCain to Civil Rights committee

Membership on state and national affairs committees reflected an attempt by President James A. McCain to involve himself and the University in off-campus activities. President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed McCain to a national citizens' advisory committee on the Civil Rights Act.

In other governmental work, the president was reappointed to a third term on a nine-man advisory committee of the Export-Import Bank. He also tried to help resolve the Kansas milling crisis produced by reduced shipping rates on unmilled Kansas wheat.

Kansas Board of Regents action effective July 1965 raised student fees from $122 to $137 per semester for Kansas residents. Tuition was jumped from $287 to $337 per semester for out-of-state students. The preceding semester fee hike by the Regents had become effective in 1963.

After the blaze which destroyed the Auditorium, President McCain asked the Regents to request $2,867,800 from the legislature for building a new structure.

William Avery, elected Kansas governor in the 1964 general election, succeeded John Anderson as chief state administrator.

Administrators function as President's advisers

Authority to co-ordinate University activities was alloted to President James A. McCain's administrative staff. The team also directed formation of administrative policies. Next in authority to President McCain, Vice-President A. L. Pugsley co-ordinated all-campus functions including University convocations. Supervision of research projects and academic programs among the six colleges and two schools was delegated to William Bevan, vice-president for academic affairs.

University financial operations, preparation of the budget and fiscal policy decisions were directed by Daniel Beatty, business manager. Max Milbourn continued his duties as assistant to the President. In the absence of President McCain, Milbourn represented the executive on general scholarship and public relations committees and as a liason member to federal agencies.

Guidance of international affairs was headed by Vice-President Emeritus A. D. Weber. Working for the Office of International Activities, Weber supervised selection and financing of exchange students.

Vice-President A. L. Pugsley shares the President's responsibilities and supervises on- and off-campus programs.

In duties as business manager, Daniel Beatty directs overall fiscal operation and budgeting of University finances.

Max Milbourn, with 15 years experience in administrative positions here, is assistant to President James A. McCain.

With status as vice-president emeritus, A. D. Weber also supervises all international activities of the University.

As vice-president for academic affairs, William Bevan oversees academic and research programs of the University.

Student personnel staff adds new administrators

Director of resident hall programs was created as a new position in the dean of student's office. The new position was intended to provide co-ordination of programming in residence halls. In another administrative slot, Theodore Heermance assumed duties as new assistant dean of students. Dean Heermance assisted the director of international activities with development of an intercultural student exchange program.

In addition to overseeing all phases of student activities, Dean of Students Chester Peters supervised directors of the student personnel services. Associate Dean of Students Margaret Lahey directed administration of women's living groups. With the help of Assistant Dean Caroline Peine, Dean Lahey advised Associated Women Students. Ralph Prusok, associate dean of students, worked with men students and advised Student Senate and Interfraternity Council.

Performing legislative action, Faculty Senate approved new bills which lengthened women's closing hours. It also ratified a higher cumulative grade requirement for scholastic honors awarded at graduation.

Completing his second year, Associate Dean of Students Ralph Prusok advises Interfraternity Council members.

As adviser to AWS and Inter-dorm Council, Dean Margaret Lahey supervises women's activities and living groups.

Theodore Heermance helps in foreign student orientation, while Caroline Peine directs resident assistant training.

Besides directing Student Personnel Services of the University, Dean Chester Peters is chairman of Housing Council and the Faculty Council on Student Affairs. He has advised members of Blue Key, senior men's honorary, for 10 years.

During enrollment, students consult with advisers, complete semester schedules, pull course cards and pay state fees.

Enrolling 3,100 new students during fall registration, Admissions and Records is headed by Ellsworth M. Gerritz.

Man-woman ratio drops; enrollment figures soar

For the first time in 20 years, during fall enrollment the student ratio of men to women was less than two to one. According to statistics collected by the Office of Admissions and Records, total enrollment soared to more than 9,900, breaking the spring 1964 record of 9,175. As well as supervising registration, Admissions and Records compiled student records and corresponded with prospective K-Staters and their parents.

In addition to on-campus duties, Ellsworth M. Gerritz, dean of Admissions and Records, spent three weeks in West Africa selecting future K-Staters. For six weeks Gerritz was consultant to the registrar of Andhra Pradesh University in Hyderabad, India.

Through use of simple props, students present a class demonstration of science for the elementary school. In preparation for teaching, each student develops and presents a project for the grade with which he hopes to work.

Agricultural research, extension and resident instruction are supervised by Glenn H. Beck, dean of the College.

Ag student increase tops land-grant enrollments

Largest numerical enrollment increase in any of the 68 land-grant institutions was recorded by the College of Agriculture. With a 23 per cent enrollment jump, Agriculture also made a larger percentage increase than any of the other University colleges. Heading over-all College administration for the fifth year was Dean Glenn Beck.

Coupled with its expanded enrollment was a consolidation of facilities. The departments of dairy and poultry science, which had functioned as individual units for more than half a century, were united. Kansas Board of Regents action placed the former units, both housed in new Call Hall, under a single administrative head.

Agriculture's research activities were magnified by completion of plans for establishment of a Water Resources Research Institute on campus. The Institute, to be operated by K-State and the University of Kansas, would study problems of water resources. Included in the research would be studies of the hydrologic cycle and of conservation, use and expansion of state water supplies.

To the extension service fell the duty of conducting a state-wide inventory of forestry resources. Research findings revealed potential forest crops for state production.

Ag college helps develop Asian, African schools

Work of the College of Agriculture was not confined to the local campus. Under a contract to the Agency for International Development, agriculturalists provided technical assistance to new universities in Asia and Africa. Through the program, Agriculture staff members were on a team sent to universities in India and Nigeria.

As part of student activities, Ag Barnwarmer and Ag Science Day were supported by Agricultural Council. Officers of the College's student groups composed the council.

Architecture considers revisions in curriculum

Options in architectural structures, design and environmental technology were proposed for a curriculum revision in the College of Architecture and Design. Plans under consideration by the College would divide the present architectural curriculum into three divisions of study.

In national ratings, the College of Architecture and Design was among 21 colleges and universities whose regional planning programs were recognized by the American Institute of Planners. An accrediting team recognized the Landscape Architecture program as one of 13 accredited departments in the nation.

Realization of job experience values was shown when the College sent a student to a London firm as a summer intern. He was one of 20 U.S. students selected to go abroad.

At an informal discussion session, architect Bruce Goff explains philosophies behind the shapes of his structures.

Distinguished Professor joins Architecture faculty

Under a program financed by a $50,000 Board of Regents appropriation, the College of Architecture and Design recruited the second "Regents Distinguished Professor." Henry Wright, a world authority on environmental technology, joined the College's faculty second semester.

Other nationally recognized architects lectured on campus through a College-sponsored series. Bruce Goff, noted for use of unorthodox building materials, and architect-planners Howard Fisher and Richard Ahern were among architects in the series.

In regional and national architectural competition, students won nine prizes. One entry, a welded space frame, won top award of $1,750 in a structural design contest sponsored by the James F. Lincoln Foundation. Another architectural student placed fourth in the same design competition.

During Architecture's second year as a college, the Architecture Council was formed to co-ordinate student and faculty activities. Members of the student group drew up the Architecture Council constitution.

Composing the new Architecture and Design Council are Keith R. Zwick, James A. Calcara, Robert A. Anderson, Steven R. Polson, Randolph L. Wright, Robyn D. Brooks, Kenneth Kallenbach, Thomas C. Helbing and Jack C. Durgan.

Assistant to the Dean John P. Murry and assistant deans Marjorie Adams and Orval Ebberts supply student advice.

Arts and Sciences plans added science facilities

Plans including renovation of Willard Hall for $1 million and construction of a chemistry instruction building for $1.6 million were among building proposals discussed for the College of Arts and Sciences. Addition of office space in the third floor attic of Eisenhower Hall was a proposed non-science expansion. The last major Arts and Sciences building completed was the $2.2 million physical sciences building finished in 1963. Major work on the speech department's Purple Masque Experimental Theatre in the east wing of the stadium has since been completed.

In addition to physical plant enlargement, curriculum expansions were enacted. New departments of political science and sociology and anthropology were added, as well as a new division in the history and philosophy department. To improve the faculty-student ratio and meet needs created by increased enrollment, 15 new staff positions were filled.

After completing experiments, students must compute and record results in laboratory manuals for chemistry credit.

Students man research for Arts and Sciences

Research conducted by Arts and Sciences departments ranged from "A Study in Etoxide-Carbonyl Rearrangements" in chemistry to "Evolution of Perceptual Frames of Reference" in psychology. Zoology researchers studied "Biological Control of Parasites in Poultry."

Through a new Board of Regents plan, the College of Arts and Sciences received the state's first "Distinguished Professor." The professor, Dr. Dudley Williams, joined the physics staff for a one-year term.

Music course scheduling was disrupted first semester due to destruction by fire of music space in the Auditorium.

Members of the Arts and Sciences Council were hosts for a Homecoming coffee sponsored by the College. The council also helped conduct high school visitation programs.

In modification of their testing programs, some departments administer departmental examinations at evening sessions.

Education raises school scholastic requirements

Completing its second year as a school, the School of Education raised admission standards to a 2.2 grade point average. Secondary education students were required to earn a 2.5 average in their fields of concentration before practice teaching.

Teacher education encompassed nearly 20 per cent of the University's total enrollment. In the graduate education program, enrollment increased more than 100 per cent from the previous year. Education enlarged its faculty size from 18 in 1960 to 28.

Grants totaling $60,000 were received from the National Science Foundation for work in elementary mathematics and science. The Peace Corps granted $210,000 for training Peace Corps volunteers to be stationed in Guatemala and the Dominican Republic.

Commerce curriculums expand; enrollment rises

While expanding its undergraduate training program and accommodating a 15 per cent enrollment increase, the College of Commerce worked in close contact with the business community. Six new scholarships were established for accounting and business administration students. Increased curriculum requirements included additional course work in statistics and mathematics.

Faculty positions in the two-year-old College of Commerce showed an increase from 16 to 24 in the last five years. Commerce was awarded college status in 1963. As dean of the College, Clyde Jones was a member of the Council of Economic Analysis and the Kansas Council for Economic Education.

The College offered six areas of professional specialization. Commerce majors could enroll in curriculums of management, finance, marketing, personnel management, general business and secretarial practice.

Commerce college hosts business teachers, editor

In conjunction with the second annual business alumni conference, the College of Commerce hosted a meeting of Kansas college and university business teachers. The featured speaker was Leonard S. Silk, senior editor and economist of Business Week magazine. Through an additional program aimed at Kansas businessmen, the College published "The Management Letter."

Another College bulletin, "The Commerce Student," was initiated by Commerce Council. The student newsletter, distributed four times annually, spotlighted commerce events on campus and in the business world. Council members also conducted a survey to determine if students would prefer beginning major courses as freshmen.

Under an accounting internship program, seniors received working experience as junior members of public accounting firms. The selected students, placed with firms from New York to California, were salaried for the six-week period of internship.

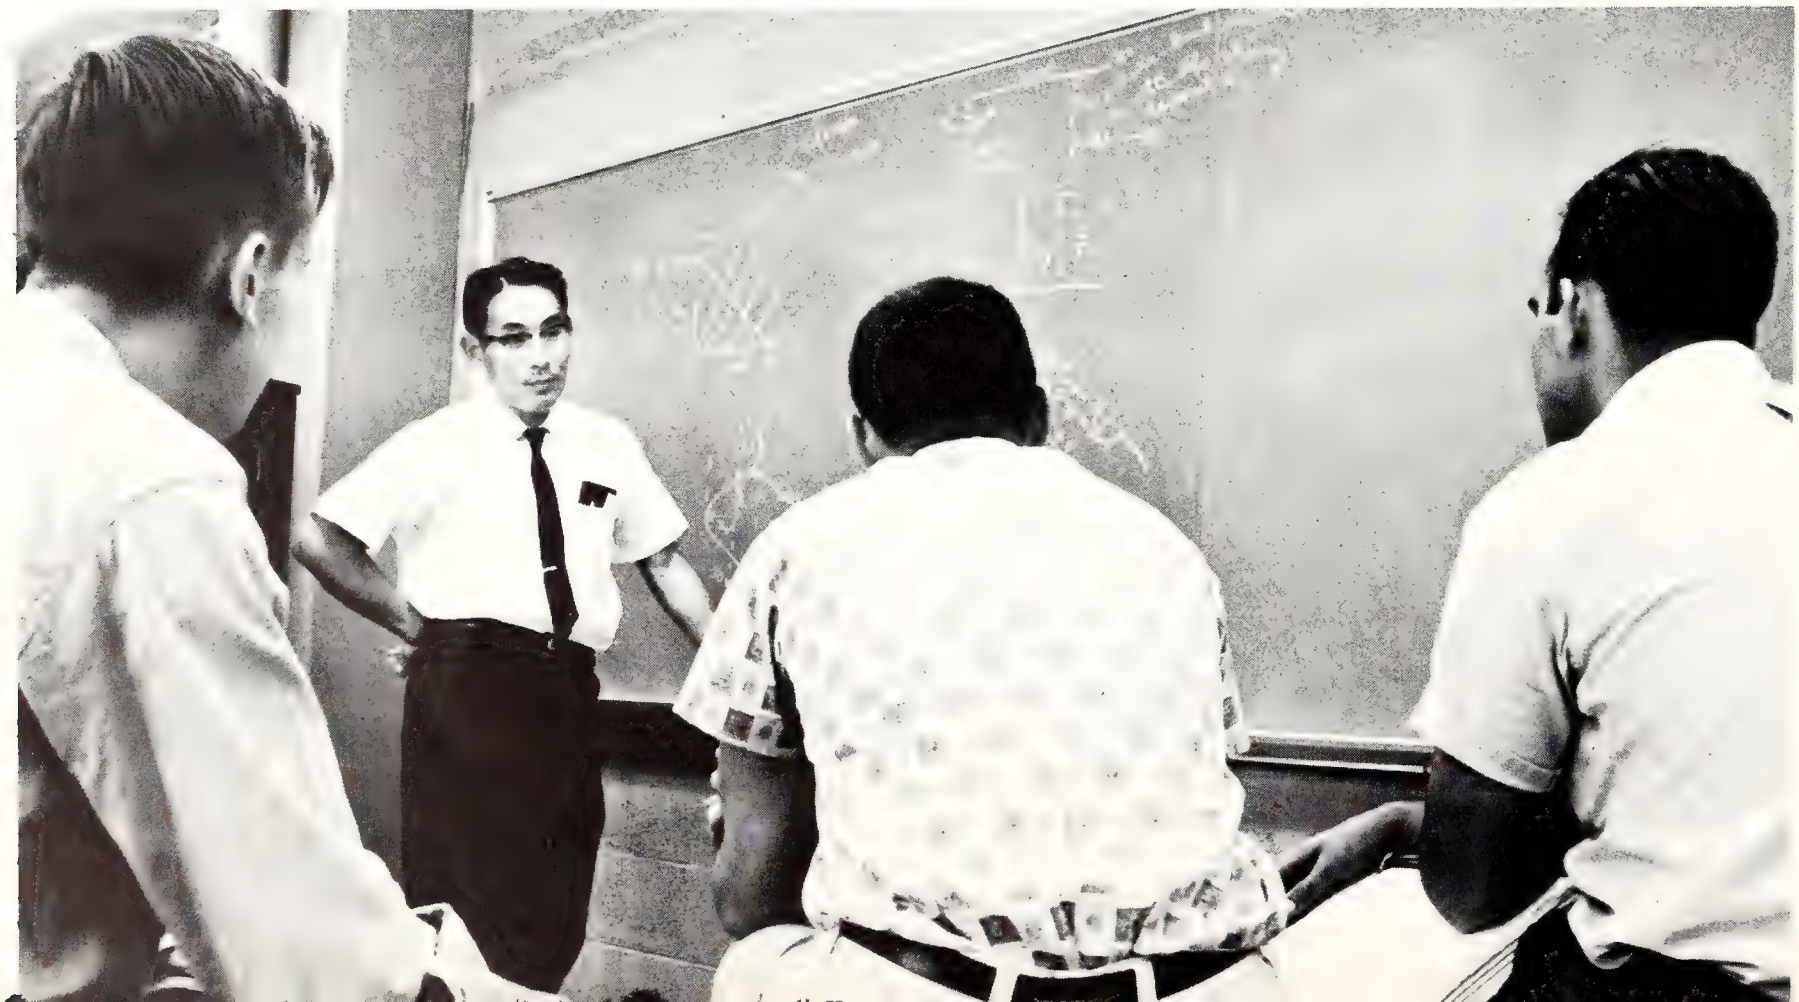
Participating in an electronics laboratory session, engineers examine a diagram of a triode tube. During the semester, class members learn characteristics and parameters of electron devices and test power supply performance.



By course work in graphic arts, students learn how to use the drafting board. Although advanced graphic skill is no longer required, engineers must enroll in introductory courses of graphic, oral and written communications.

Doctoral degrees expand Engineering curriculums

For the first time, the College of Engineering offered doctoral programs in nuclear and environmental engineering. Doctoral studies in mechanical, electrical and chemical engineering and applied mechanics were also open to graduate students.

Although the College of Engineering honors program was only three years old, 90 students participated in it.

Cooperating with the Agency for International Development, the College had four faculty representatives at the University of Assiut in Egypt. Three staff members worked to improve engineering practices in Brazil and Afghanistan. Another three professors delivered research papers in Europe.

As advisory member, Dean Paul Russell serves on a Kansas Chamber of Commerce industrial development committee.

Non-University sources allot Engineering grants

Approximately one-half million dollars were invested in more than 83 research projects conducted by the Engineering Experiment Station. Non-University funds financed 60 per cent of Engineering research.

Also largely dependent on outside funds was the Environmental Research Laboratory, housing projects financed by grants totaling $120,000. Under a seven-month, $46,000 program, researchers studied confinement in a simulated air raid shelter. Through a study entitled "Physiological Response to Hot-Humid Environments," more definite standards for survival shelter design were determined. Environmental research also studied optimum temperature for floor surface comfort and evaluated kitchen range ventilation hoods. The College of Engineering worked on plans for an addition to the environmental laboratory physical plant.

As co-ordinator of student activities in the College, Engineering Council helped supervise departmental exhibits for the renamed Engineers' and Architects' Open House.

Enrollment figures break Home Economics record

Undergraduate enrollment of 889 students during fall semester smashed an all-time record of 841 set in 1940 by the College of Home Economics. The largest recorded freshman class and an increased number of graduate students also combined to boost total enrollment to the College's largest since it was founded in 1873.

Home Economics awarded almost 150 bachelor's degrees. In addition, following a demand for more graduate home economists, the Home Economics Master's Degree Project was launched spring semester 1964. Top-ranking home economics students in the upper 10 per cent of each class were invited to participate in the accelerated study project. Students in the program selected electives which would permit them to move directly into master's degree work following graduation. A member of the graduate faculty was appointed to advise each of the 33 participants.

Research plays top role in home ec curriculums

Research played an integral part in the six curriculums of the College of Home Economics. Foods and nutrition research focused on dietary habits of underprivileged, preschool children in Riley County. The department also conducted a National Livestock and Meat Board test about pork cookery.

A family economics project utilized a kitchen with a motorized chair designed to help semi-invalids manage homes.

In testing resistance of fabric to weathering and light, clothing and textiles used a weatherometer. The research machine simulated humidity, temperature and rainfall conditions. Another device, a scott tester, studied chemical and physical effects of radiation exposure to cotton fabric.

Graduate School names space researcher dean

Replacing Acting Dean William Stamey, John Lott Brown assumed duties as dean of Graduate School early second semester. Dean Brown, who has been a director of graduate study at the University of Pennsylvania's medical school, succeeded Dean Harold Howe. The former administrator left K-State to be head of the graduate school at St. Louis University. In past research work, Dean Brown had been involved in study of sensory and perceptual problems of space flight. He received his doctorate from Columbia University.

In addition to administrative changes, the school expanded Graduate Council by eight members. Fuller Council representation of graduate study areas, coordination of graduate work among schools and colleges and support of research by grants were points included in the reorganization. The School's Research Coordinating Council allocated more than $32,000 in research study grants.

To outline graduate programs fitted to individual needs is the duty of Graduate School's Acting Dean William L. Stamey.

As members of Research Co-ordinating Council, Leland S. Hobson, William L. Stamey, C. Peairs Wilson and Alvin B. Cardwell allocate funds for graduate research.

As assistant dean, Lee T. Railsback works with students and supervises programing of veterinary medicine courses.

Among 287 students studying to be veterinarians, only 12 women are enrolled in the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Kitchell assumes duties as new veterinary dean

As new dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, Ralph L. Kitchell, assumed administrative duties during the summer school session. Dean Kitchell replaced former head Elden E. Leasure who retired to do veterinary teaching and research. The new administrator held degrees in veterinary medicine and human anatomy from Iowa State University and the University of Minnesota.

In projected programs of the College, Dean Kitchell focused plans on increasing activities in research, professional training and service to practicing veterinarians in Kansas. Programs supervised by the administrator reflected what he foresaw as a future need for increased cooperation between the veterinary and medical professions.

Supervising student activities of the College, Veterinary Medicine Executive Council organized the eighth annual Veterinary Medicine Open House. With one representative from each class and five elected members, the veterinary council acted as governing organization of the student chapter of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

Vet stipend encourages study of nervous system

Granted $84,511 by a branch of the National Institute of Health, the College of Veterinary Medicine initiated a three-year study of encephalitic problems in cattle. Investigation of nervous system disorders common in feedlot areas was the main problem subsidized. Work was to be aimed at methods of diagnosis, treatment and prevention.

Among 30 studies conducted by the College was research on vaccine to reduce the 10 to 50 per cent mortality usually resulting from pinkeye in cattle. Work was also done on a test to shorten time required in identification of shipping fever complex.

Dietary deficiencies and skin warts in cattle, as well as baby pig anemia and gastric ulcers in swine, were studied in other veterinary research. More than 5,000 mice were used in rabies diagnostic services provided by the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Fifth and sixth year veterinary students examine a cat to determine respiratory trouble. While conducting the examination, students follow diagnostic procedures used when admitting animals to Dykstra Veterinary Hospital.

As part of preliminary steps used in treatment of external parasites, a dog is sheared by veterinary students. In addition to training veterinarians, Dykstra Hospital provides an animal diagnosis and treatment center for community use.

Senate increases power to check apportionments

Through a major constitutional revision enacted by Student Senate, the governing body delegated itself more power in reviewing apportionments to campus organizations. In expansion of its organization, Senate created four new committees: student opinion sampling, cultural affairs, anti-discrimination and political union.

As student representatives, members hosted the Conference on Higher Education in Kansas. The group also joined the Associated Student Governments of the United States. Delegates were sent to the Big Eight and National Student Government conferences and the President's Youth Leadership Conference in Washington.

With President Ron Hysom, Student Governing Association was one of three student groups to inaugurate a 'Cats for Curtains campaign. It aimed to provide stage drapes for the auditorium planned to replace the structure gutted in a winter fire.

Ron Hysom, as Student Governing Association president, serves as chairman of the activity fee Apportionment Board.

Royal Purple, Collegian and Student Directory finances were directed by the Board of Student Publications. The Board awarded contracts for photographic services, printing and yearbook work. Among duties for the three student and three faculty members was guidance of Collegian editorial policies.

Board alters structure; opens membership post

With reorganization of Apportionment Board, one student was added to the previous three-student, three-faculty member board. Ronald Hysom, student body president, was board chairman. Almost $300,000 from student activity funds was apportioned by the board to more than 35 campus organizations.

Allotting funds to campus organizations are Apportionment Board members Stephen D. Nelson, Shelia R. Pilger, Dean Chester E. Peters, Melvin E. Thompson, Donald M. Williams, Ann McCaslin, Karl Stacey and Ronald H. Hysom.

Chancellor James Thiesing, serving his second year on Tribunal, presides over meetings of the judicial group.

Judicial branch judges student discipline cases

Because of its status as student government's judicial branch, Tribunal was charged with maintenance and enforcement of the K-State honor code. The body made recommendations on action to be taken in student disciplinary cases. Tribunal also held hearings on reinstatement petitions for students dismissed from the University.

After cases were heard by Tribunal, recommendations were referred for action to the dean of students. Tribunal's attorney general reviewed cases with the dean. Students were allowed to appeal Tribunal decisions to the Board of Appeals. Board members hearing student petitions were Faculty Senate president, student body president and the dean of each violator's college.

To represent the undergraduate college councils, five student justices were appointed by the student body president. Each Tribunal justice was authorized to serve a three-year term. Also appointed to terms on the judicial body were four faculty justices. James Thiesing acted as chancellor of Tribunal.

Coeds volunteer their help at the Student Health Center through an AWS service committee. During free hours the volunteers assist registered nurses by sterilizing instruments, carrying trays and acting as untrained nurses aids.

AWS bills pass Senate, form new coed policy

Eight bills drafted by Associated Women Students concerning rule changes for undergraduate women were passed by Faculty Senate. The policies included increasing upperclass women's closing hours to 11 p.m. on week nights and 12 p.m. on Sundays.

Helping begin a library at a Nigerian university, AWS collected books from campus organizations. The group also initiated a tradition of donating books to Farrell Library in the name of a woman professor nominated by University women as favorite instructor. AWS donated $200 worth of books on behalf of its first winner, Ivalee McCord, a member of the home economics faculty. Associate Dean Margaret Lahey advised AWS.

Students, professionals utilize Union facilities

Fulfilling its role as "the living room of the campus community," the Union provided facilities for more than 3,000 meetings of student and professional groups.

Remodeling the upper level recreation desk resulted in installation of the Cats' Pause. The combined bookstore and ticket booth was named in a campus-wide contest.

New Orleans, the New York World's Fair, Colorado ski slopes and Europe were destinations of Union-sponsored trips and tours. Campus entertainment scheduled by the 10 Union committees included Johnny Mathis and the Modern Folk Quartet. To use the Dive more effectively, the Union sponsored hootenannies and combos for Friday night dances.

Organizations are made up of people, and people retain memories of campus life as seen through the groups. They sponsor contests like the Ag Barnwarmer and Derby Day, but all work is not alone. Many groups work together on joint events like the Homecoming rally.

Seat of campus life is the Union. With the Activities Center and meeting rooms, the Union provides a center at which many organizations can base their work. But the Union means much more than work. It is a campus living room. Whether dancing to a combo in the Dive or just having a coke in the State Room, a student always has a place to relax after a day of classes.

Blue Key seniors plan 'Haunting Memories'

Presentation of a traditional white cape to Homecoming Queen Deanna McCracken was only one facet Blue Key members arranged in planning Homecoming. Following the theme, "Haunting Memories," the seniors also organized the skits, parade, dance, bonfire and football game ceremonies.

Painting "Beat KU" signs on merchants' windows was a project which added $600 to the Blue Key treasury. The honorary contributed to the 'Cats for Curtains campaign and to a memorial fund for a student killed in a car accident. Blue Key presented its annual scholarship to a sophomore man.

Advised by Chester Peters, dean of students, the senior men's honorary selected a traditional 13 members on the basis of their leadership and scholarship records. The men boasted a 3.2 cumulative grade average. Blue Key elected Harvey Hensley president.

Freshman honoraries decorate Homecoming ball

Decorations for the Homecoming Dance were designed and constructed by members of Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eta Sigma. Following a fall theme, the honoraries used pumpkins, leaves and candles on tables.

Distributing posters publicizing University Convocation speakers was a new task of Alpha Lambda Delta. Members of the 35-woman freshman honorary assisted with freshmen and transfer student orientation. Led by President Diane Hodgson, the organization also conducted a dormitory scholarship program for freshmen women.

"How To Study" pamphlets were given to entering students by members of Phi Eta Sigma, freshmen men's honorary. The scholastic group also held a joint banquet with Alpha Lambda Delta to honor new members. With a membership of 30, the group was directed by David Tucker. Members in both honoraries maintained a 3.5 grade point average for work done during their freshman years.

Scholarship earns coeds Phi Alpha Mu citations

To acknowledge scholastic achievement, Phi Alpha Mu recognized Sharon Carlson and Jeryn Faddis as the junior women with the highest grade averages in Arts and Sciences. Based on grades of their first two years, both women held 4.0 grade averages. The arts and sciences honorary also invited all sophomore women in the College who had earned at least 3.0 averages to a scholarship tea.

Putnam Scholars review political campaign tactics

Implications of the political campaigns were discussed at a pre-election meeting of the Putnam Scholars Association. President McCain spoke at the group's annual banquet. Other activities included a watermelon feed, Christmas party and spring picnic. Putnam scholarships, established in 1954, were the first grants in the University's program of general scholarships.

Home economics honoraries promote profession

"Responsibilities of Women in Tomorrow's World" served as unifying theme behind programs of Phi Upsilon Omicron. In collegiate work to advance professional home economics, members acted as guides for visitors touring Justin Hall. The honorary planned a spring Founders' Day ceremony.

Seniors in the honorary aided the home economics faculty by serving as assistant freshmen advisers. Phi Upsilon Omicron awarded a traveling plaque to the home economics student it judged most outstanding for leadership and scholarship as a freshman.

Through a program promoting research in home economics, Omicron Nu members studied investigations undertaken by faculty women. The professional group entertained international women and sophomores with eligible grades at a spring dessert. The society also planned a freshman tea. Barbara Symns was elected president.

Doretta Hoffman, dean of the College of Home Economics, showed slides of her Russian trip to women in the honorary. Omicron Nu pledges were required to have earned a junior standing and a 3.0 grade average.

Sigma Tau whitewashes 'KS' monument on K-Hill

As part of Sigma Tau's initiation requirement, the engineering honorary's pledges whitewashed the concrete "KS" on K-Hill. The "K" was built by engineers in 1921 while the "S" was completed by Sigma Tau in 1930. Another pledge project was painting the Sigma Tau pyramid northwest of the Union.

In addition to conducting opening ceremonies for Engineers' Open House, Sigma Tau supervised selection of St. Pat and St. Patricia. Paul Russell, Engineering dean, was chosen an honorary member. The engineers held spring and fall initiation banquets.

High grades win student praise of milling group

Outstanding scholarship won Craig Helwig an award from Alpha Mu for the highest freshman grades earned in the milling technology program. Only chapter of Alpha Mu in the nation, the milling honorary held fall and spring banquets at which new members were initiated. Alpha Mu members also participated in Ag Science Day activities.

Scouting service chapter notes 35th anniversary

As one of the nation's oldest continuously active chapters, Alpha Phi Omega celebrated its 35th anniversary. Members sponsored a Boy Scout den chief training day and conducted scouting discussion groups. As service work, Alpha Phi Omega organized the Homecoming Parade, built the Homecoming bonfire and operated a student book exchange.

Music program ushers belong to Phi Mu Alpha

Ushers for music department concerts were provided by Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, a music honorary. As co-sponsors of the Feast of Carols, the men staged a boar's head procession and sang Christmas carols with Mu Phi Epsilon. Phi Mu Alpha planned the spring Sweetheart Ball for which members chose a Phi Mu sweetheart to reign at the dance.

Wildcat victories signal Phi Epsilon Kappa bell

Overlooking Memorial Stadium, a 300-pound bell was erected by Phi Epsilon Kappa. The physical education fraternity specified that the bell be rung after Wildcat victories. Manhattan fifth and sixth graders participated in a free throw contest the honorary sponsored. Members printed newsletters and sent gifts to a children's hospital.

Future educators hear about job interviewing

"Interviewing the Prospective Teacher" provided a lecture topic at one meeting of Kappa Delta Pi. C. Fred Colvin, from the Wichita school system, presented the talk on teaching interviews. For another guest educator, Kappa Delta Pi invited a professor to discuss teaching opportunities.

Kathleen Nelson acted as president of the education honorary. Joe Loeb was Kappa Delta Pi adviser. The 70 juniors and seniors ranked in the upper fifth of their classes.

Seminars ready students for architecture exams

Seminars were scheduled by Tau Sigma Delta to help architects prepare for state board examinations. Through the project, students readied themselves for the tests they would take to become licensed architects after three-year apprenticeships.

Camel-green blazers bearing the Tau Sigma Delta crest were worn by members. The honorary tapped students in architecture and the allied arts with 3.0 grade averages or in the upper 20 per cent of their classes.

Eta Kappa Nu recruits more student engineers

Recruiting students for the College of Engineering, Eta Kappa Nu members talked to high school students and prospective engineering majors at Engineers' and Architects' Open House. The scholastic honorary also set up a booth explaining the electrical engineering curriculum. Eta Kappa Nu also scheduled an initiation banquet for new actives.

Geology majors attend earth science seminars

Six seminars, co-sponsored by Sigma Gamma Epsilon and a geography group, attracted both geology and geography students. The national geology honorary elected John Russell its president. Faculty adviser Henry Beck helped the group plan a five-day field trip to Carlsbad, N. M. to study geologic formations present in the southwest region.

Theater honorary stages two one-act productions

"No Exit" and "Phoenix Too Frequent" were two one-act dramas produced by Pi Epsilon Delta during the spring. David Sadkin directed activities of the dramatics honorary in promoting theatrical interest on campus. An undergraduate received the annual scholarship of Pi Epsilon Delta, awarded in multiples of $50. Wallace Dace advised Pi Epsilon Delta in planning theatrical projects.

Omicron Delta Epsilon studies economic issues

Economic development keynoted the speech of George Montgomery, an economics professor, at a fall meeting of Omicron Delta Epsilon. President William Champney helped plan the four professional meetings and two business sessions which the economics honorary conducted. The economists met in the Union for two luncheon meetings. Jarvin Emerson served as adviser for Omicron Delta Epsilon.

Tuttle picnic greets chemistry graduate students

To welcome new chemistry graduate students, Phi Lambda Upsilon held a picnic at Tuttle Creek. In professional activities, the chemical society also recognized outstanding scholarship and research.

Through its awards, four certificates of honor were given to highest ranked members of the undergraduate classes of chemistry. The honorary engraved the senior recipient's name on its senior plaque. Certificates and cash were awarded to two winners of graduate scholarship and research divisions. The research winner presented study findings at the society's banquet. The chemists elected Charles Reineke president. James Copeland advised the honorary in planning activities.

Engineers go to meeting at Arkansas University

At the University of Arkansas, members of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers participated in an AIIE student conference. The engineers also attended senior chapter meetings in Wichita and Kansas City. Speakers from Kansas industries were invited to AIIE meetings. The group scheduled two picnics and a banquet honoring seniors and participated in the Homecoming Parade.

Science, universe supply physics lecture subjects

Molecular physics, "Good and Bad Science" and "The Universe—Its Creation" provided lecture topics at meetings of the American Institute of Physics. At one program, Vladimer Synecek told members about physics in Czechoslovakia. The group also heard its sponsor, John McKinley, discuss "How to Acquire Fake Experimental Data." The physics majors attended spring and fall picnics.

Civil engineers sponsor Mid-Continent conference

Representatives from eight universities attended the Mid-Continent Civil Engineering Conference hosted by the American Society of Civil Engineers. The chapter's members sponsored a session with professional Kansas civil engineers and civil engineering majors from the University of Kansas. The engineers attended a similar meeting in Lawrence during the spring. At eight meetings each semester, members heard prominent civil engineers from Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. Members entered independent intramurals.

Architects back Goff lecture, environment talks

"Architecture as an Art," a lecture by architect Bruce Goff, was sponsored by the student chapter of the American Institute of Architects. Goff, a Kansas City architect, was noted for his use of unusual structural design. "Architecture as an Art," his film which won a Cannes Film Festival award, was shown to the professional group.

While on an architectural tour of Wichita, the architects visited a Frank Lloyd Wright building at Wichita State University and inspected the largest building in Kansas.

In promoting the year's theme, "Environment 65," the student chapter sponsored talks on Asian architecture and the role of the architect and city planner in American society. Other lectures and discussions also concerned space planning, church design and sculpture. President Thomas Lawrence directed activities of the 180 architects.

Midwest, regional meets draw student engineers

Engineering students from colleges throughout the Midwest attended the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, student conference hosted by the University's ASME chapter. Major industries provided speakers for ASME programs. The society also planned a picnic for mechanical engineering students and faculty members.

Regional conferences of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. and at the University of Kansas were attended by the University's chapter. The chemical engineers selected St. Pat and St. Patricia candidates. Members also planned a curriculum exhibit for Engineers' and Architects' Open House.

High schoolers enter Phems' sports competition

High school students from across Kansas attended the sports day sponsored by Phems and the women's physical education department. Phems, an organization to which all women physical education majors must belong, also planned a junior high play day. Competitive sports events and a campus tour were scheduled as part of both programs.

Through the year guest speakers were invited to lecture at meetings about new ideas and concepts in methods of teaching physical education. Demonstration in free exercise, modern dance and trampoline methods were among program topics. Phems elected Joyce Kuhns its president. Katheryn McKinney advised the physical education group.

Pre-vet students sponsor Winter Festival dance

More than 200 couples attended the Winter Festival semiformal dance of Pre-Veterinary Medical Club. The group applied profits from the dance and other money-making events to the scholarship it sponsored for a student entering the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Besides attending a spring steak fry, members manned a Veterinary Open House booth. Senior veterinary students counseled Pre-Veterinary Medical Club members. President Russell Hagan presided over meetings.

Prospective doctors, dentists tour medical school

On a field trip to the University of Kansas Medical Center, Clinic Club members watched diagnostic work. The tests, made by medical students, used tissue and x-rays of experimental cadavers. Professors and students from the medical center visited the group to explain requirements for admission to the KU medical school. Other doctors talked to the pre-professional group about their medical experiences. Members also viewed an open heart surgery film.

Composed of pre-medical and pre-dental students, Clinic Club attempted to dispel public misconceptions about medicine.

Veterinary auxiliary operates concession sales

Concession sales were operated by the Student American Veterinary Medical Association Auxiliary at Veterinary Medicine Open House. The women also entertained freshman wives and brides of veterinary medicine students at a welcoming tea. Two dances and a Christmas party for members' children were planned by the auxiliary group.

At the group's junior-senior banquet and senior wives commencement program, wives of graduating seniors received DVM-MRS degrees. Other programs were planned to inform members about the future veterinary careers of their husbands. Founded in 1941, the chapter was the first women's auxiliary of the national veterinary organization.

SEA rates award, hosts high school convention

Ranked first in the state in over-all ratings, the Student Education Association chapter featured programs patterned to widen the educational scope of future teachers. At one meeting a class from the School of the Deaf at Olathe demonstrated methods used in teaching students with hearing defects. Other S.E.A. programs included a mock teaching job interview and a talk on teaching in large city primary and secondary school systems.

Members of the education organization hosted the Kansas high school convention of Future Teachers of America. In conjunction with Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Delta Kappa and Delta Kappa Gamma, education honorary organizations, the group sponsored an annual student recognition banquet. To familiarize freshmen and transfer students with facilities of the School of Education, S.E.A. conducted a fall orientation program for education majors.

Home ec clubs sell apples, inspect communications

During final week, the members of Home Economics Teaching Club sold more than 1,600 apples to students in living groups as a money-raising project. The club, one of eight components of the Kansas division of the American Home Economics Association, had 124 members. The home economics women made Thanksgiving favors for residents of Manhattan rest homes.

In order to give members a first-hand view of professional journalists at work, Home Economics Journalism Club planned field trips to Topeka and Kansas City. In Topeka, the women visited Stauffer Publications and WIBW radio-TV and toured the Menninger Foundation. The group planned programs centered on job opportunities for women in home economics and journalism fields.

Soccer squad members represent 15 countries

Students from 15 countries, including two Americans and twelve Nigerians, combined to provide the University with a team for soccer, the national sport of many nations. International members of Soccer Club played a fall slate of five games and scheduled five more for late spring.

During the fall, the squad scored wins over the University of Kansas and the University of Oklahoma. However, the team suffered a loss to Rockhurst College. Soccer Club also tied two Kansas City teams—Park College and the Kansas City Athletics.

Financial support for the team came from Apportionment Board and club dues. The three fall home games were played on the east campus intramural field. An early spring game against Ft. Riley for International Week was scheduled for Memorial Stadium but was switched to the east campus field because of wet turf. Herman Pitter was president of Soccer Club. A Nigerian, Celestine Njoku, served as team captain.

Maneuvering to protect the ball, international students play soccer, the national sport of more than 100 countries.

As part of a whirlwind tour, Mike Goldwater, son of the Republican presidential nominee, leads a pre-election rally.

National, state elections spark University politics

Election year activities highlighted the efforts of both Collegiate Young Democrats and Collegiate Young Republicans.

CYD conducted monthly meetings to build enthusiasm for national, state and local campaigns. Traveling as a car caravan, students met Hubert Humphrey, candidate for vice-president, in Topeka and John Montgomery, candidate for Congress, in Junction City. Members worked in voter registration drives, sponsored candidates for state offices at political convocations on campus, entertained candidates and their families and worked for a "two-party state in Kansas."

With over 500 members, CYR played an active role in Republican campaigns for state and national offices. CYR sponsored a visit on campus by Mike Goldwater, son of the Republican presidential candidate. Car caravans traveled to Wichita and Topeka to hear Republican candidates Barry Goldwater and William Miller speak. Kitty Barker spent the summer working as a Congressional intern for Kansas Congressman Joe Skubitz. Doug Groesbeck, president of the political group, served as publicity co-chairman for the Midwest Federation CYR executive board.

Modern dancers present films, Orchesis concert

"A Time to Dance" was among films shown by Orchesis, a dance organization. Each semester the group showed one film on modern dance as its fund raising project. Under direction of Martha Kellstrom, faculty adviser, Orchesis featured group and solo dance numbers at its annual concert. Members also decorated a car for Homecoming. The group elected Kathleen Allen Orchesis president.

Student political chapter issues election material

Distribution of election campaign material and organization of a chapter at the University of Kansas were projects of Young Americans for Freedom. Members also published the monthly Young American. Congressman-elect Chester Mize talked at one meeting. Since organization in 1960, the 60,000-member group has grown into one of the largest American political youth groups.

Religious meeting covers religion, state, education

"Religion, the State and Education" was the theme for a conference on church-state relations sponsored by Religious Co-ordinating Council. Kansas school superintendents, protestant clergymen and several state officials participated in the conference.

Among Council presentations was a Catholic, Protestant and Jewish dialogue series. Subject of another Council program was "Christian Faith and Contemporary Drama."

In its duty as campus religious co-ordinator, the group supervised religious activities of students, faculty and public. Serving on the Religious Council were presidents of University religious foundations for students.

Chinese religious group commemorates holidays

Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter were observed at special holiday meetings by members of the Chinese Christian Fellowship. The Chinese students met weekly for Bible study. Membership in the religious group, organized in 1961 by three students, was open to Chinese students and faculty. Che F. Foo was Chinese Christian Fellowship president.

Baptist members schedule discussions, services

As religious discussion monitors, members of Grace Baptist Student Fellowship led the group's Sunday evening meetings. Occasionally, the Baptist student group was responsible for presentation of church services. In other activities, the religious organization went Christmas caroling and planned programs of inspirational singing.

The newly built Grace Baptist church west of the men's dormitory provided a meeting place for the religious group. The fellowship moved into new quarters at the church during Thanksgiving vacation. As a social activity members planned a progressive supper party.

At meetings of the group, members studied application of Christian teachings to the lives of University students. Executive planner for Grace Baptist Student Fellowship was President Randall Rich. Herbert C. Moser was faculty sponsor for the organization.

Foreign students borrow Wesley exchange coats

Foreign students who found themselves unprepared for the windy Kansas winter welcomed the Wesley Foundation overcoat exchange. Conducted throughout the year, the exchange loaned coats to students during their residence at the University.

Centered around Wesley Foundation were activities for men and women of Methodist preference. Students of the religious organization attended a weekend work camp in Topeka. While at the camp, the students painted a church and assisted in a neighborhood clean-up campaign. Wesley Foundation also sponsored a Japanese work camp and travel seminar during the summer.

Financial aid for a Christian student publication in Ceylon was provided by Sigma Theta Epsilon. Warren Remple advised the Methodist men's group.

Under the direction of Mrs. Warren Rempel, women of Kappa Phi sponsored a bake sale. At meetings the group discussed teachings of Christ with respect to modern living.

Catholic Newman Club performs community aid

"Social action" was the goal of Newman Club activity planning. The Catholic student group helped with Negro voting registration and provided Thanksgiving dinner for two underprivileged families. Newmanites also drove elderly persons and new international students to downtown Manhattan.

Communion breakfasts and Sunday evening discussions were scheduled by the group. Newman Club social activities included a fall mixer, formal, Christmas tree trimming party, caroling and a spring picnic. Newmanites attended Mass and religious study classes at the Catholic St. Isodore's Chapel.

Greeks conduct census of handicapped children

As a Greek Week project, Interfraternity Council directed a census to determine where services of the Manhattan Federation for Handicapped Children were needed.

Plans were drafted for a Greek honorary to acknowledge service by Greeks to the fraternity system and the University. The group also worked to establish an annual scholarship in honor of V. D. "Tiny" Foltz, former Interfraternity Council adviser.

Big Eight IFC-Panhellenic Conference held at the University was hosted by the men. Interfraternity Council also arranged housing in fraternities for International Farm Youth Exchange delegates.

Interfraternity Pledge Council directed a door-to-door Heart Fund Drive and crowned a king and queen at its annual IPC Dance.

Greeks set rush record; pledge total reaches 745

At the close of Panhellenic rush week, a record 336 coeds pledged 11 sororities. The previous high had been 290, set in 1961. To relieve chaos and congestion after distribution of bids, each sorority pledge group met in a predetermined area inside the dormitories. Before returning to sorority yell-ins in previous years, all sororities and pledges had organized in groups in front of the women's dormitories.

Under a fraternity rush policy change, the number of rush dates was increased to five per day. Rushees were allowed to visit 10 houses during the five-day rush period. Rapid processing of the preference lists submitted by rushees and fraternities permitted bids to be issued in less than one hour. The 23 fraternities rushing pledged 409 men, 92 per cent of 448 rushees. Delta Chi and Triangle, which had previously been fraternity colonies, rushed for the first time as official chapters.

To depict rush party themes, sorority members present a skit. Each sorority gave five rush skits during the week.

Hugs and screams of joy greet new pledges arriving at a sorority house after they received invitations to pledge. As a diversion in the rush week activities, fraternity men bring rushees to sorority yell-ins to inspect new pledges.

During one of the last rush parties before the signing of preference selection cards, sorority members entertain rushees with a formal tea.

Slightly lost in the hustle of rush changes, men move from the dormitory to fraternity houses.

At one of five dates each rushee could accept daily, prospective pledges eat with Greek men.

Pi Phi chapter captures national sorority awards

One hundred nine chapters. Founded Monmouth College 1867. Kansas Beta chapter established 1915. President: Rita D. Mundhenke.

Each semester Pi Beta Phi schedules a retreat for officers' training at its French Provincial house, 1819 Todd Road.

Ranking as one of the top ten chapters in the nation for contributions to the Pi Beta Phi settlement school in Tennessee was Kansas Beta chapter. At convention the sorority won three national awards. In one of the citations, the Amy Burnham Onken Award, a member was named outstanding Pi Phi in the nation.

In scholarship competition against ten other sororities, women of Pi Beta Phi won first place for spring 1964.

Title holders of Miss Wool of America and Circle K Queen were Pi Phis. Another member was chosen Homecoming attendant. In campus organizations, sorority women directed activities of SEA and YWCA as presidents. Pi Beta Phi also claimed two Mortar Board members, two Chimes members, a Student Senate delegate, two Wildcat cheerleaders and the Royal Purple editor.

House dedication brings Beta Sig national officer

Dedication of their new $280,000 home with a luncheon and party attended by the national vice-president of Beta Sigma Psi highlighted the year for Beta Sigs. The men also received the national fraternity's Outstanding Chapter Award for the fifth time in 10 years.

With Reformation Day ceremonies, Beta Sigs celebrated Martin Luther's separation from the Catholic church. Beta Sigs won the football game with Phi Kappa Theta, a Catholic fraternity. Karen Repp reigned as queen of the annual function.

Student body president and presidents of four campus organizations were members. Beta Sigma Psi ranked first in spring 1964 volleyball for the second consecutive year.

Delta Sigma Phi swells 'Cats for Curtains fund

To collect money for the 'Cats for Curtains campaign, Delta Sigma Phi kidnapped sorority housemothers. The housemothers were ransomed for $10 each. Delta Sigs specified that upon submitting the ransoms each sorority present a serenade to the fraternity.

Recognizing her 16 years as fraternity housemother, Alpha Upsilon chapter of Delta Sigma Phi planned a tea for Mrs. Paul Smith when she retired in spring 1964.

Members of Delta Sigma Phi belonged to Phi Mu Epsilon, Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Eta Sigma. Delta Sigs acted as president of University Party and assistant editor of Touchstone. In a traditional football game, the men boasted their ninth win over the fraternity's University of Kansas chapter.

Varsity athletics attract Delta Tau Delta players

Fraternity athletes represented Delta Tau Delta on varsity sports teams. Delts participated in varsity football, baseball, basketball and track competition. Members entered all intramural sports.

As campus leaders Delts were tapped by Blue Key, Phi Epsilon Kappa, Arnold Air Society, Sigma Delta Chi, Steel Ring and Sigma Tau. Two Putnam scholars, business manager of the Royal Purple and president of Commerce Council were Delts. Working with Union affairs, fraternity men served on Union Governing Board and Student Activities Board.

FarmHouse wins trophy for fraternity scholarship

Game parking presents no problem for FarmHouse, only one-half block from Ahearn Field House, at 1820 College Heights.

Scholastic efforts paid off for FarmHouse as it again captured the fraternity scholarship trophy with a 2.933 house average for spring 1964. The win made the fifth consecutive semester that FarmHouse had earned the award. Since 1937, the fraternity has won first place forty times and second place eight times. The chapter also took home the Summa Cum Laude Award from the FarmHouse national fraternity conclave.

In Interfraternity Sing, FarmHouse won third place. Members sang "Builders of Men" and "Fair FarmHouse." FarmHouse was represented by two men in Blue Key, two on Student Senate and four in Phi Kappa Phi. One member was national president of the student American Agronomy Club.

At a practice session in Ahearn Field House, the FarmHouse volleyball team bats its ball from side to side in preparation for opening intramural action. FarmHouse competed with other fraternitites in basketball, football and tennis.

Phi Kappa Theta adds renovations to basement

Complete with patio, the Phi Kappa Theta house, 1965 College Heights, is the product of an alumni member's design.

Remodeling of the Phi Kappa Theta basement was completed during the summer. Renovations included new floor covering and a fresh paint job for walls and ceiling. Curtains for the recreation room were furnished by the Phi Kap Mothers' Club.

As service projects, Phi Kaps donated blood to St. Mary's Hospital and helped with the Red Cross Bloodmobile. Toys were given to an Indian orphanage at Christmas. Reformation Day with Beta Sigma Psi, which marked Martin Luther's separation from Catholicism, featured a football game, dinner and election of a queen.

Phi Kaps were officers in Pre-Veterinary Medical Club, Newman Club, Alpha Kappa Psi, Extension Club, Architecture and Design Council and IFC. The men won badminton and horseshoe intramurals.

Sigma Chi wins trophies in IF Sing, Y-Orpheum

After a six-year absence, the Interfraternity Sing trophy returned to Sigma Chi. Entered in Y-Orpheum with Kappa Kappa Gamma, Sigma Chi won first place with the joint skit, "Quit Horsin' Helen." The house received the national Sigma Chi Public Relations Award and won second place in campus Quiz Bowl competition. Sigma Chi celebrated its fifteenth anniversary as a University fraternity.

Derby Day, the Miami Triad and the Sweetheart Ball highlighted social activities. Sigma Chis sponsored a Christmas party for underprivileged children and an Orientation dance for new students. Members participated in several varsity sports, student government activities and honorary societies.

Redecorating project hits Sig Ep living quarters

During summer renovations, carpeting, draperies and wood paneling were added to the Sigma Phi Epsilon living room and dining room. Redecoration of the rooms for the men cost approximately $5,000.

New fraternity officers of Sigma Phi Epsilon were announced at the Golden Heart Ball. Besides a formal, Sig Eps attended the Hawaiian Party, a Founders' Day dinner, a Christmas party and sorority functions. The men helped with a Heart Fund drive and planned mothers' and fathers' weekends.

In campus activities, Sig Eps were members of Alpha Kappa Psi, Sigma Tau, Phi Kappa Phi, Steel Ring, and Eta Kappa Nu. Several men played on varsity athletic teams.

In cooperation with the Riley County Heart Fund drive, members of Sigma Phi Epsilon prepare the Heart Fund cans they distributed to all dormitories and living groups. Helping with the Heart Fund drive is an annual Sig Ep service project.

TKEs purchase option, plan house construction

With plans for construction of a new house, Tau Kappa Epsilon purchased an option on a building site. Following the Auditorium fire, TKEs helped the music department move office equipment from Nichols Gymnasium to East Stadium, and in a community clean-up project, TKEs washed walls and floors at Riley County Memorial Hospital.

One fraternity member on Agriculture Council was named outstanding senior in farm cropping. Other TKEs belonged to Alpha Zeta, Tau Sigma Delta, Sigma Tau, Eta Kappa Nu and Epsilon Pi Tau.

Featuring a barbecue at a ranch, the Corral Party highlighted TKE social functions. The fraternity also planned the Red Lion Inn Christmas Party and the Red Carnation Ball.

Homecoming Queen lives at Smurthwaite House

Smurthwaite, the University's only women's scholarship house, housed the Homecoming Queen and second runner-up to 1964 Miss K-State-Manhattan. Other members were winner of Phi Upsilon Omicron's Freshman of the Year Plaque and a K-Stepper.

Georgiana Smurthwaite Scholarship House boasted the Delta Upsilon sweetheart and presidents of Phi Upsilon Omicron and Omicron Nu. Members belonged to Phi Kappa Phi, six honorary fraternities, the Putnam Scholars Association, Chimes, Mortar Board, Angel Flight and Student Senate.

Among house social events were a Leap Year Party, Christmas and caroling parties and a spring banquet and formal. The women entertained men from a University of Kansas scholarship hall at an exchange function.

Smith outpaces houses for top scholastic rank

With a house grade average of 2.963, Maitland E. Smith Scholarship House earned the highest scholastic average of all campus living groups for spring 1964. Special work projects of Smith were helping clear land for the University Park golf course near Tuttle Creek and giving toys to underprivileged children at Christmas.

Honoring their new housemother, Smith men gave a tea to introduce Mrs. Helen King to the campus. Smith also serenaded the Homecoming Queen at Smurthwaite and planned the Great Pumpkin Patch Party for Halloween.

Faculty guests headline Straube cultural series

Faculty guests spoke on Wednesday nights at the Oscar E. Straube Scholarship House as part of a house cultural program.

In order to maintain residency in the house, the students were required to keep a 2.5 minimum grade average. Straube men were represented in honorary organizations including Alpha Mu, Steel Ring, Sigma Tau, Phi Tau Sigma, Alpha Zeta, Eta Kappa Nu and Arnold Air Society.

As social activities, Straube residents scheduled exchange dances with women's living groups, hayrack rides and a spring formal.

Fall housing shortages force freshmen women to room in dormitory social lounges. Some coeds moved to sororities.

Dormitory construction increases coed housing

In expansion of women's housing facilities, the University began construction of a nine-story, 600-woman dormitory. Plans specified opening of the new dormitory, near West Hall northeast of the campus, for fall 1965. A two-story food service building, to feed students in the projected four-hall complex, neared completion in the spring.

Operating Boyd, Putnam, Van Zile, Waltheim and West halls as well as Smurthwaite Scholarship House and Jardine Y and Q, the University provided housing for more than 1,200 freshmen and upperclass women. Housing officials decided to close Waltheim Hall as an upperclass women's dorm in the fall of 1965.

Evening entertainment at a women's residence hall includes a skit given to introduce a candidate in the Favorite Man on Campus competition. Encouraging the dormitory women to vote, a men's living group presents its FMOC candidate.

Women living in residence halls must sign out when leaving after 7:30 p.m. While new rules give upperclass women 11:00 closing hours, freshmen must be in by 10:30 on week nights. All coeds have 1:00 hours Fridays and Saturdays.

Boyd Hall co-ordinates student-faculty program

By sponsoring a Faculty Associate Program, Boyd Hall worked to further student-faculty relations. Through the project, faculty members visited the dormitory weekly to talk informally with the women. During final week, instructors conducted study sessions in the residence hall.

Language dinners were planned during second semester. While dining, with the women, language instructors and international students spoke the languages of the countries they represented.

As a Christmas service project, Boyd Hall collected money for a Manhattan family. The family was invited to a Christmas party at the dormitory. Boyd Hall was one of four dormitories in the University's residence hall program for freshmen women.

One of four freshman dormitories, Boyd Hall provides dining facilities for its own residents and West Hall women.

Nearly 300 women live in Putnam Hall. Among coeds living in the freshman residence hall was a student from Ghana.

Putnam Hall residents win Derby Day rankings

Second runner-up for Derby Darling and two finalists for Best Dressed Girl on Campus lived in Putnam Hall. The freshman residence hall won second place among women's groups at Sigma Chi Derby Day. For the first time, a freshman woman from Ghana, Africa lived at Putnam Hall.

Caroling at Fort Riley and collecting clothing for a Manhattan family were projects the women undertook. The dormitory scheduled Christmas and Halloween parties, hootenannies, hour dances, holiday dinners and corridor picnics and gift exchanges. Fantasy in Frost, the dormitory Christmas formal, highlighted Putnam social functions.

Before starting to study, coeds receive calls on several of the four phones on each Putnam Hall floor. Putnam maintains seven incoming lines for its 16 phones. Students are hired as switchboard operators for the residence halls.

Before eating dinner, Jardine Q residents complete final meal preparations. Each of the four- and five-woman apartments provides cooking facilities. Living quarters in Jardine Terrace housed upperclass coeds for the second year.

Coeds finish residence in Jardine apartments

Spring semester ended the residence of upperclass women in the Jardine Terrace apartment complex. Women were first housed in Jardine during fall 1963. With completion of a nine-story women's dormitory, to open in fall 1965, pressure on women's housing facilities will be relieved.

Residents of Jardine Q entertained at informal parties in the apartments and participated in women's intramural athletics.

Five campus honoraries tap Jardine Y residents

Outstanding residents of Jardine Terrace Y included members of five University honoraries. Several graduate students, night editor of the Collegian and a Royal Purple Queen finalist also lived in the apartments.

Jardine Y women competed in intramural kickball, volleyball, basketball, bowling, tennis, softball and badminton. Social functions the independent students attended were a pizza party and a picnic.

At a plasticware party, Jardine Y women select storage containers for use in their apartment kitchens. Other parties the coeds hostessed included a pizza party and spring picnic. The women planned snack spreads for final week.

University praises Sunset for grade achievement

Receiving University housing recognition for outstanding grades, Sunset Apartment residents served as Union committee chairmen and were active in A Cappella Choir, Kappa Phi, Kappa Delta Pi and the K-State Players. Housed in three-woman apartments, the coeds donated Christmas trees to needy families and participated in Penny-a-Minute Night.

Before going home for Christmas vacation, residents of Sunset Apartments clean their living suites. New furniture was added to a few of the apartments in which women resided at the privately operated complex, 1026 Sunset.

Snow drifts, frosted windows and a sidewalk cafe decorated with red and white awnings set the scene for Van Zile's Christmas formal. The oldest of four women's dormitories, Van Zile houses freshmen and upperclass students.

Van Zile tallies women in each University class

For the first time in four years, the residents of Van Zile Hall included women from each University class. In previous years, the dormitory had been designated as either a residence hall for freshmen or upperclass coeds instead of housing both groups.

Supervised by a new residence hall director, Joan Priefert, Van Zile women honored faculty and parents at two open houses. Coeds entertained their parents at mothers' and fathers' weekends spring semester. Van Zile Hall was represented in Angel Flight, the K-State Singers and Alpha Lambda Delta.

Residents of Waltheim Hall help measure a friend's hem, completing a shift for a class or for a special occasion.

Waltheim grade average outranks residence halls

Trophy for the highest over-all grade average earned by a women's residence hall was received by the women of Waltheim Hall for spring 1964. Waltheim also acquired a new housemother, Mrs. Mabel Johnson.

Caroling, construction of a Homecoming float, a Christmas formal and an informal spring party were among activities planned by the independent women.

With a 22-resident increase, Waltheim Hall's 12 apartments were filled to a 90-woman capacity. Each apartment contained one large and one small bedroom, a kitchenette, bathroom and study room. Women in the hall ate in a cafeteria maintained at Waltheim.

Only one block from Aggieville, Waltheim Hall provides living suites for upperclass women. The former apartment building at 1436 Laramie houses nearly 90 women and features apartment living with the meals prepared in a cafeteria.

First in a planned four-dormitory complex, West Hall is located on the northeast corner of campus. The five-story dormitory was named for Bessie B. West, a home economist. Opened in 1962, it is a freshman women's residence hall.

Returning from vacation, West Hall women load luggage in an elevator on the way to rooms on five dormitory floors.

West coeds judge cattle, win wool sewing contest

Miss Make-It-Yourself-With-Wool of Kansas and a member of the dairy judging team were residents of West Hall. Through scholarship achievement, West Hall women earned memberships in Alpha Lambda Delta, Sigma Alpha Eta and Alpha Delta Theta. Holders of Putnam, Panhellenic and music scholarships lived in the dormitory.

A temporary inconvenience was caused for West Hall residents when a bulldozer miscalculated an excavation site and severed dormitory phone communication.

Fantasy in Red, a semiformal dance before Valentine's Day, teas and corridor parties were dormitory social activities. West Hall planned an open house and informal dances with fraternities and men's living groups.

Thespians, swimmer live at Petticoat Penthouse

Two K-State Players and a member of Frog Club were among the eight coeds who lived at Petticoat Penthouse spring semester. Seven of the eight residents were sophomores while one was a junior.

When the house was organized for independent women in fall 1963, the women dubbed it Petticoat Penthouse. The privately owned residence hall formerly had served as an annex to a sorority house next door.

Two suppers in the fall and informal parties in the spring were planned by the independent women. The upperclass residence hall was located at 615 Fairchild Terrace.

International coeds claim prevalence at Rice Hall

Internationality claimed a prominent spot in Rice Hall with 10 of the 18 residents claiming China, Mexico, Turkey and India as home. Fifteen of the women were graduate students, and two of them studied at the University on government grants.

Music, art, math and biological science majors were among curriculums in which Rice Hall women were enrolled. Maria Nava of Mexico acted as the women's president.

Formerly a nurses' home for St. Mary's Hospital, the two-story, frame structure at 314 N. 11th St. was converted into a residence hall for independent women in 1961.

Residence hall cafeteria expands service capacity

Opening a second line increased the food service capacity of the men's residence hall cafeteria from 750 to 1,350 per meal. After five years operation, the cafeteria was named Kramer Food Center.

More than 1,300 men lived in three dormitories—Goodnow Hall, Marlatt Hall and West Stadium. East Stadium had housed men first semester until vacated for use by the music department after the Auditorium fire.

Marlatt Hall, built on the same floor plan as Goodnow Hall, opened first semester for 600 men. Parking facilities for the two dormitories were increased during the fall from an original 80 spaces for Goodnow to 400 spots for men of both dormitories.

Emergency living quarters are set up in the basement of Goodnow hall due to a record-breaking fall enrollment of 9,450 students. Similar makeshift housing was present in the other dormitories during the first months of school.

Goodnow Hall remodels dorm recreation facilities

Goodnow Hall remodeling provided exercise and wrestling rooms, television lounges and a photography darkroom. Participating by floors in intramural sports, Tonkawa, Comanche, Seneca, Arapaho, Shoshoni and Pawnee also planned separate social functions.

Represented in nearly every campus organization, the 600 residents of Goodnow Hall formed one of the University's two largest living groups. Varsity football player with highest grades among Big Eight Conference squad members lived in Goodnow. Another man was Putnam Scholars Association president.

Charlie Brown and "Peanuts" characters welcome visitors to Goodnow's open house after the Parents' Day football game.

At weekly floor meetings, Marlatt Hall men discuss dormitory policies, plan social activities and organize intramural teams. A Marlatt Hall squad won first place trophy in the men's residence hall division of intramural swimming.

Marlatt Hall becomes second 600-man dormitory

Completed in time for fall residency, Marlatt Hall became the newest men's residence hall. The six-story structure, built on a plan similar to Goodnow Hall, housed approximately 600 men. Like Goodnow, each of the six floors elected its own government. The hall was named for Washington Marlatt, who was instrumental in persuading Kansas to accept the Morrill Act, establishing the state's land-grant college at Manhattan.

Keeping informed on current affairs, Marlatt Hall men read news media before eating in the cafeteria they share with Goodnow Hall. Each of the hall's six floors has a lounge where the men may have dances with women's living groups.

International Hall houses students of 15 countries

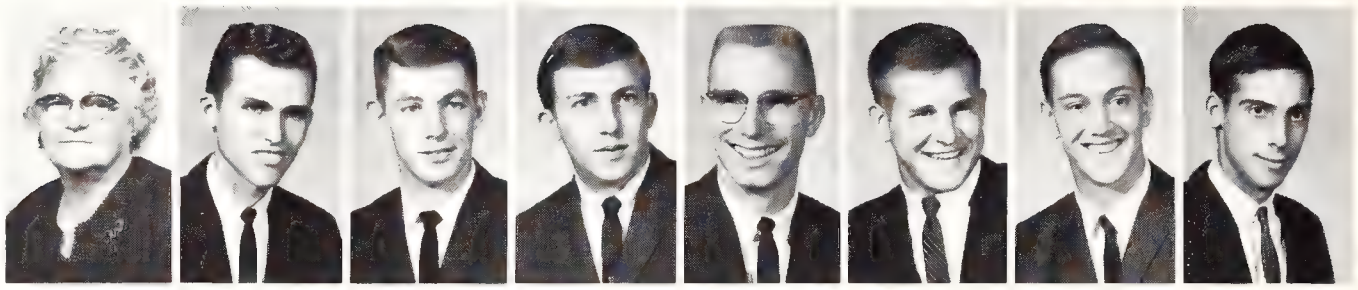
Organized in the fall as a residence for foreign students, International Hall was home for students from 15 countries. Among the residents were students from Persia, India, Africa and France. One International Hall man, enrolled at the University as a special student, was an associate professor of agriculture from the University of Bucharest in Romania.

Although the organization was new, International Hall men planned several parties. Mrs. Jean Lymore was housemother and an organizer of International Hall. Clorse Dale was elected president of the 21 residents.

Cosmopolitan influences accent life at La Citadel

Interest in international students and life in foreign lands accented the life of La Citadel men. Included among the 11 men were seven students from India, Turkey and Formosa. Christopher Polycarpon, a student from Cyprus, spoke to the men about the island's political situation from his viewpoint as a Greek Cypriot.

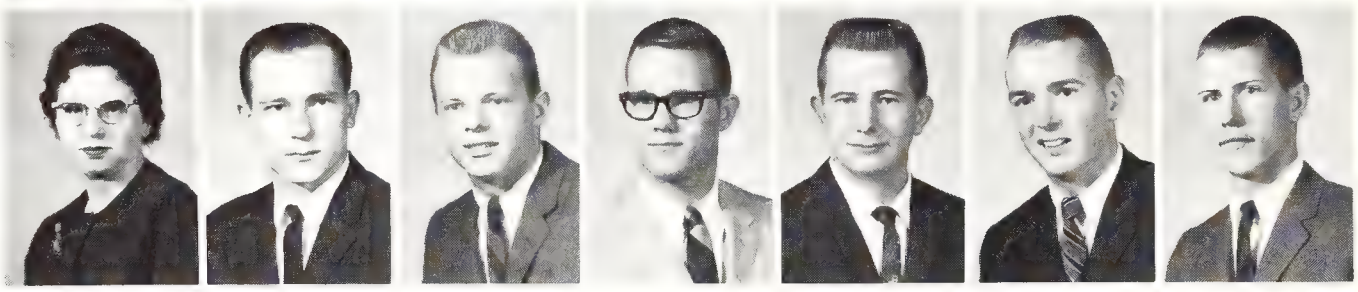
Harlan Wells was elected president while Mrs. L. T. Smith was housemother for La Citadel. The living group, which planned a spring hayrack ride, completed its eleventh year on campus. Tau Sigma Delta and Sigma Tau selected La Citadel men for membership.



Kasbah—Mrs. Evelyn E. Rogers, Claude T. Crawshaw, Charles R. Fail, John G. Hayes, Gerald L. Lefmann, Michael Quillin, Robert P. Renner, John L. Sheets.

Kasbah athletes compete in five intramural sports

Five intramural sports were entered by Kasbah men. The house participated in independent division competition including basketball, horseshoes and badminton. Topping social events planned by Kasbah was a spring formal. Active in campus organizations, men in the independent living group belonged to Soil Conservation Society of America, Klod and Kernel Klub and the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.



OK House—Mrs. Stuart Walter, James L. Abendroth, Larry D. Groves, Robert B. Keigley, Donald L. Kiser, Dennis C. Patterson, Robert W. Shideler.

OK House feels brunt of housing construction

Pressure of competition from new Marlatt Hall and apartment complexes near campus was felt by OK House. In one year size dropped from 20 men to four residents spring semester. OK House was organized in 1953 as a boarding house and has housed as many as 48 men. However, during 1964-65 meals were discontinued, and the group ceased to function as an organized living group.

During fall semester the men participated in intramurals. The OK House team placed third in the independent division of football.

Writing a composition, students complete the English proficiency test. By University ruling, the test must be passed before graduation. Of the 1,194 juniors and seniors taking the test during fall semester, 16 per cent failed.

Calculating the distance between two points on a map, three Parsons Hall men work together to complete homework for an Army ROTC map reading course. Approximately three-fourths of the men at Parsons Hall are enrolled in ROTC.

Parsons Hall undertakes yard beautification work

Leveling the yard and planting grass, men of Parsons Hall worked on a grounds beautification project for their housing unit. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Parsons served as house parents for the independent men's hall, 1334 Fremont.

Second place, over-all standing in independent intramurals competition was won by Parsons Hall. As social activities, Parsons Hall residents planned a steak fry and a hayrack ride and wiener roast at Tuttle Creek.

Stadium plans erection of Wildcat victory torch

West Stadium built a victory fire before the Homecoming game and made plans for a permanent, gas-fed victory torch. Plans specified that the torch be placed at the north end of Memorial Stadium to burn for all Wildcat athletic events.

Residents entertained at a spring formal, a Christmas party and exchange dances with women's dormitories. The senior class treasurer and the captain of the varsity swimming team were among the 30 residents of West Stadium. The men donated baskets of food to Manhattan families at Thanksgiving.

Men living in West Stadium live closer to the campus than residents of any of the other men's or women's dormitories. Students have only a three-minute walk from their rooms, built in the west half of Memorial Stadium, to the Union.

Often preparing daily class work, married women in Jardine Terrace must also care for their homes and families.

Allotted the grocery shopping, a married student unloads ingredients which his wife will need for a week of meals.

Jardine Terrace Mayors—William B. Pollock, William C. Randle, James I. Miller, A. Thornton Edwards.

Jardine Terrace units house married students

Jardine Terrace apartments provided homes for 534 student families spring semester. Twenty-two of the 24 buildings and part of another were used for married housing. Single, upperclass women lived in the remaining University-operated apartments.

For political organization, the complex was divided into five blocks. An elected council, composed of a mayor and two councilmen from each building, governed each block. Jardine did not conduct an organized intramural program as it had in former years.

Evening get-togethers with other couples to play cards or just talk add a touch of relaxation for married students.

Enjoying a warm day, one of the families living at Jardine Terrace barbecues steaks on a grill outside the unit.

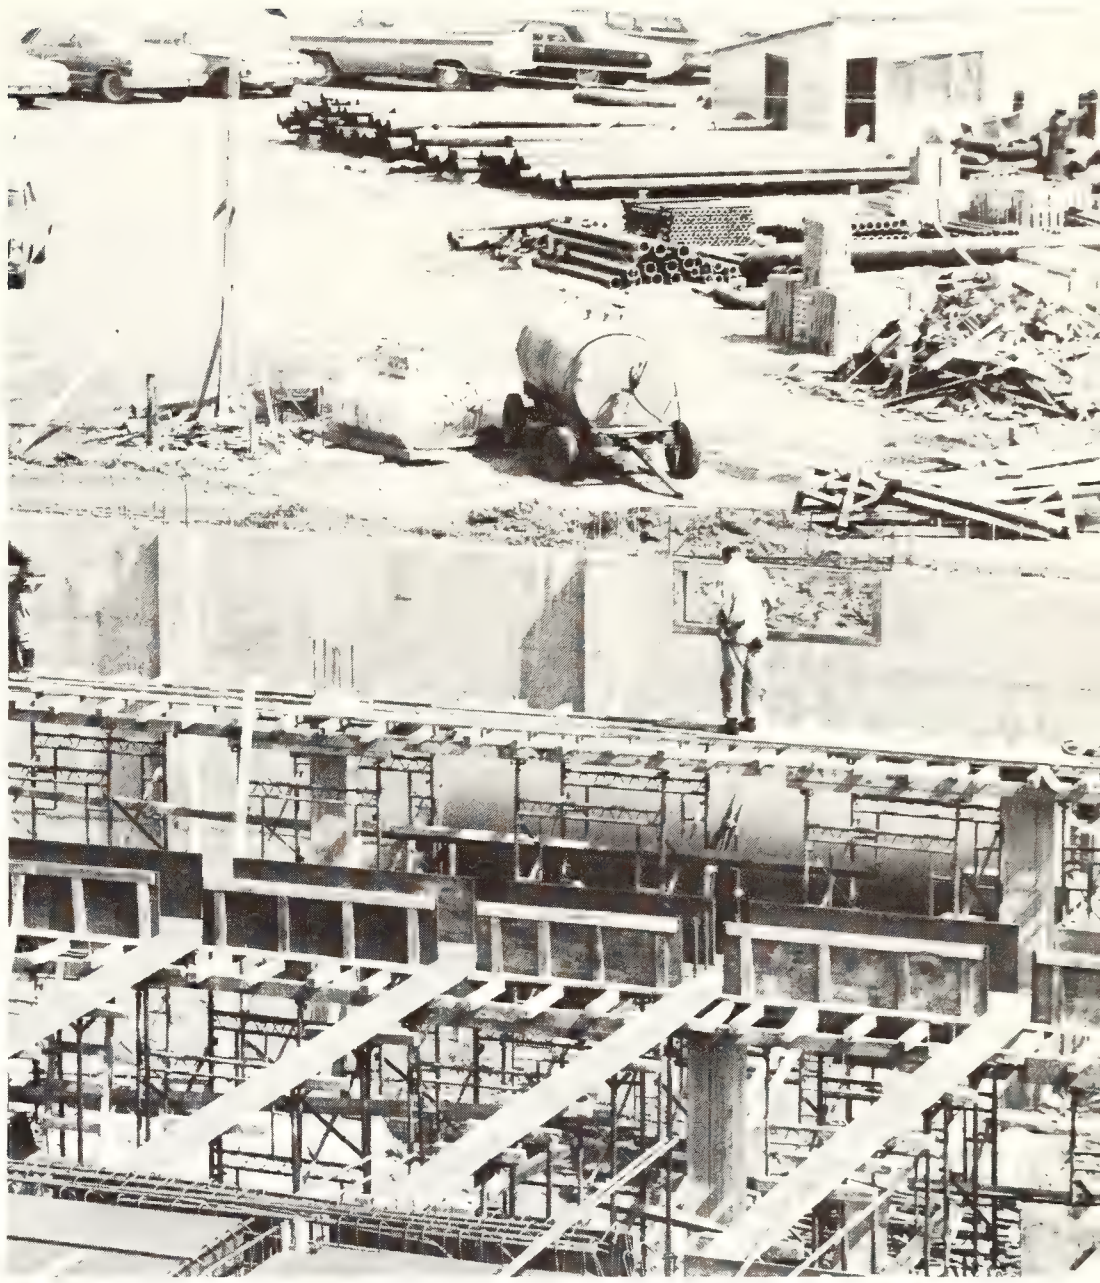
First traces of spring encourage car washers to use a hosing down site provided for Jardine Terrace residents. The complex of furnished apartments includes volleyball and basketball courts and coin-operated laundry facilities.

Studying often proves difficult for the married men living with their families in the University-operated Jardine Terrace. Many wives who live in the northwest campus apartment complex are also enrolled in course work for degrees.

Married students use washers and dryers in laundry facilities provided at Jardine Terrace for their weekly washing.

"Not more than $150 damage, I'm sure," think young roadsters using a sidewalk which connects Jardine apartments.

Rising nine stories high, the new women's dormitory overlooks work on the foundation of a food service building.



Construction begins on a $3,406,000 hall, which will house 627 women. It is scheduled to open Sept. 1, 1965.

Combining with West Hall, the new dormitory and food service center complete part of a proposed four-dormitory complex. The dormitory, the fourth residence hall built in five years, makes possible the closing of Waltheim Hall.

Varsity Sports 277-313
Intramural Sports 314-319
All-Campus Events 320-361
Extra Curricular Activities 362-388

College memories are made of many things—the images of people, places and things. Years after graduation, college days will bring back memories of plays, heated athletic contests, memberships in music groups and on judging teams and publications staffs. These extracurricular activities reflect an image of one segment of the well-rounded student's University years. Although events and organizations must fit the interests of more than 9,000 individuals, each student can be sure there will be activities through which he can express his own personality.

Distinctive of college life is a culturally flavored atmosphere. In attending programs ranging from Johnny Mathis to the Chamber Music Series to John Ciardi, students mirror cultural interests. Book reviews, plays, the Artist Series, lectures and political activities all provide a foundation on which the student may base a cultural outlook.

Athletics Director H. B. Lee examines a drawing of a proposed, compacted earth design stadium for the University.

Athletics Council studies proposed stadium plans

Plans for a proposed football stadium northwest of the campus were considered by Athletics Council. Memorial Stadium, used for football games for 40 years, was built for $500,000. Contributions had financed construction of the stadium.

As its primary function, Athletics Council administered policies of the intercollegiate sports program through Athletics Director Horace B. Lee. Merrill A. Durland, a member of the council for 20 years, presided at meetings of the 12-member board.

Chosen K-State's "Most Inspirational Player," John Christensen outruns a Tiger defender to gain valuable yardage.

With a game in progress, defensive line coach John Kadlec and Coach Doug Weaver issue instructions to the players.

Quarterback Ed Danieley launches an aerial against Nebraska, Big Eight Conference kingpin, in a contest at Lincoln which the Wildcats lost 47-0. During the gridiron season, Danieley completed 36 tosses for 358 yards and one score.

Weaver's grid team ties for Big Eight's fifth spot

Finishing the season with a rush by winning two of the final three games, the Wildcats earned a 3-7 record. Coached by Doug Weaver, the team tied for fifth place in the Big Eight. Three wins were the most for a Cat team since 1955.

In the season's first action, the Purple and White battled Wisconsin to the wire before being dropped 17-7. The Wildcats rebounded against the University of Colorado by cuffing the Buffaloes 16-14. Salting away their first win, the 'Cats survived a Buff surge in the second half of the game.

Opening home action showed University fans what was in store during the season. The team's defense smothered Missouri's offensive thrusts several times before the Tigers edged in to score, winning 7-0.

Wildcat defenders Larry Anderson, Dan Woodward, Charlie Cottle and Bob Mitts smash into Tiger fullback Carl Reese.

Ranked third in the nation for punting with a 43.4 yard average, Doug Dusenbury foots a ball against the Jayhawkers.

Wildcats rope Cowboys, pacify Iowa's Cyclones

Nebraska Cornhuskers tacked a 47-0 loss on the Wildcat record in a rugged match at Lincoln. On a trip into Soonerland, Weaver's squad ran into pre-season title favorite Oklahoma and fell 44-0.

University of Kansas had its hands full with the Wildcats before Jayhawker All-American Gail Sayers broke for a 77-yard scoring jaunt. His run shackled the 'Cats with a 7-0 loss. The team also suffered a 21-10 defeat at the hands of Arizona State.

Although Iowa State visited Memorial Stadium with hopes of picking up its first victory of the season, the Wildcats turned back a two-point conversion for a 7-6 decision. Against Oklahoma State, the 'Cats used a blocked kick score to win the home game 17-14.

Jayhawker Ron Oelschlager is piled up by 'Cat defenders Mike Beffa, Dan Woodward and Bill Matan after a short dart up the 'Cat middle. Although Kansas won 7-0, the Wildcat defensive unit stood out for the entire Homecoming contest.

Sealing off an opening on KU All-American Gail Sayers, defense players Dan Woodward, Bob Mitts, Denby Blackwell and Bill Matan move in to swamp Sayers. The All-American was held to six yards on six carries for the first half of play.

Halfback Jerry Condit flares out into a void left by Iowa State players to catch a pass from Ed Danieley. Condit was the leading Wildcat rusher, picking up 450 yards during the season. The halfback was also the third place receiver.

During final minutes with Iowa State, defensive end Bill Matan expresses delight over the Cyclone's missed field goal. Matan, a junior, and Bob Mitts, a senior defensive linebacker, were named to the All-Big Eight defensive team.

As Max Martin, Bob Mitts and Bob Sjogren gang tackle Iowa State's Ron Halda, linebacker Charlie Cottle falls on a Cyclone fumble. The play demonstrates that the key responsible for Wildcat football fortunes was defensive action.

In the Oklahoma State game, Bob Sjogren and Larry Anderson collapse on Cowboy Jeff Williams. Defensive action held Cowboys to 131 ground yards. After winning 17-14, the 'Cats won a fifth place Big Eight tie with Oklahoma State.

Lobos edge past 'Cats with lengthy field goals

In the season's finale, the Wildcats outclassed but didn't outscore the Lobos of the University of New Mexico. The 'Cats dominated the contest statistically but three field goals, one a record breaking 51-yard boot by Lobo guard Jack Abendschan, turned the game into a 9-7 loss for Weaver's team.

Up in the air, freshman Art Strozier attempts to spear one of the 39 aerials thrown by the frosh squad quarterbacks.

'Cat frosh team suffers NU, KU gridiron losses

Under first-year Coach Ken LaRue, the Wildcat freshman squad continued its losing tendencies. However, marked improvement was noted at each game. Against the Nebraska crew, the yearlings fought gamely, but finally fell 0-7 before a hard-rushing Husker attack. Although the frosh rushing attack faltered, LaRue's team applied a potent passing assault which netted 100 yards.

In its only home game, the frosh squad battled a tough Kansas team and was upended 13-6. Wildcats again used the airways to stay in the game, amassing 185 aerial yards. Quarterback Mike White picked up 86 yards in a single pass to Lodis Rhodes.

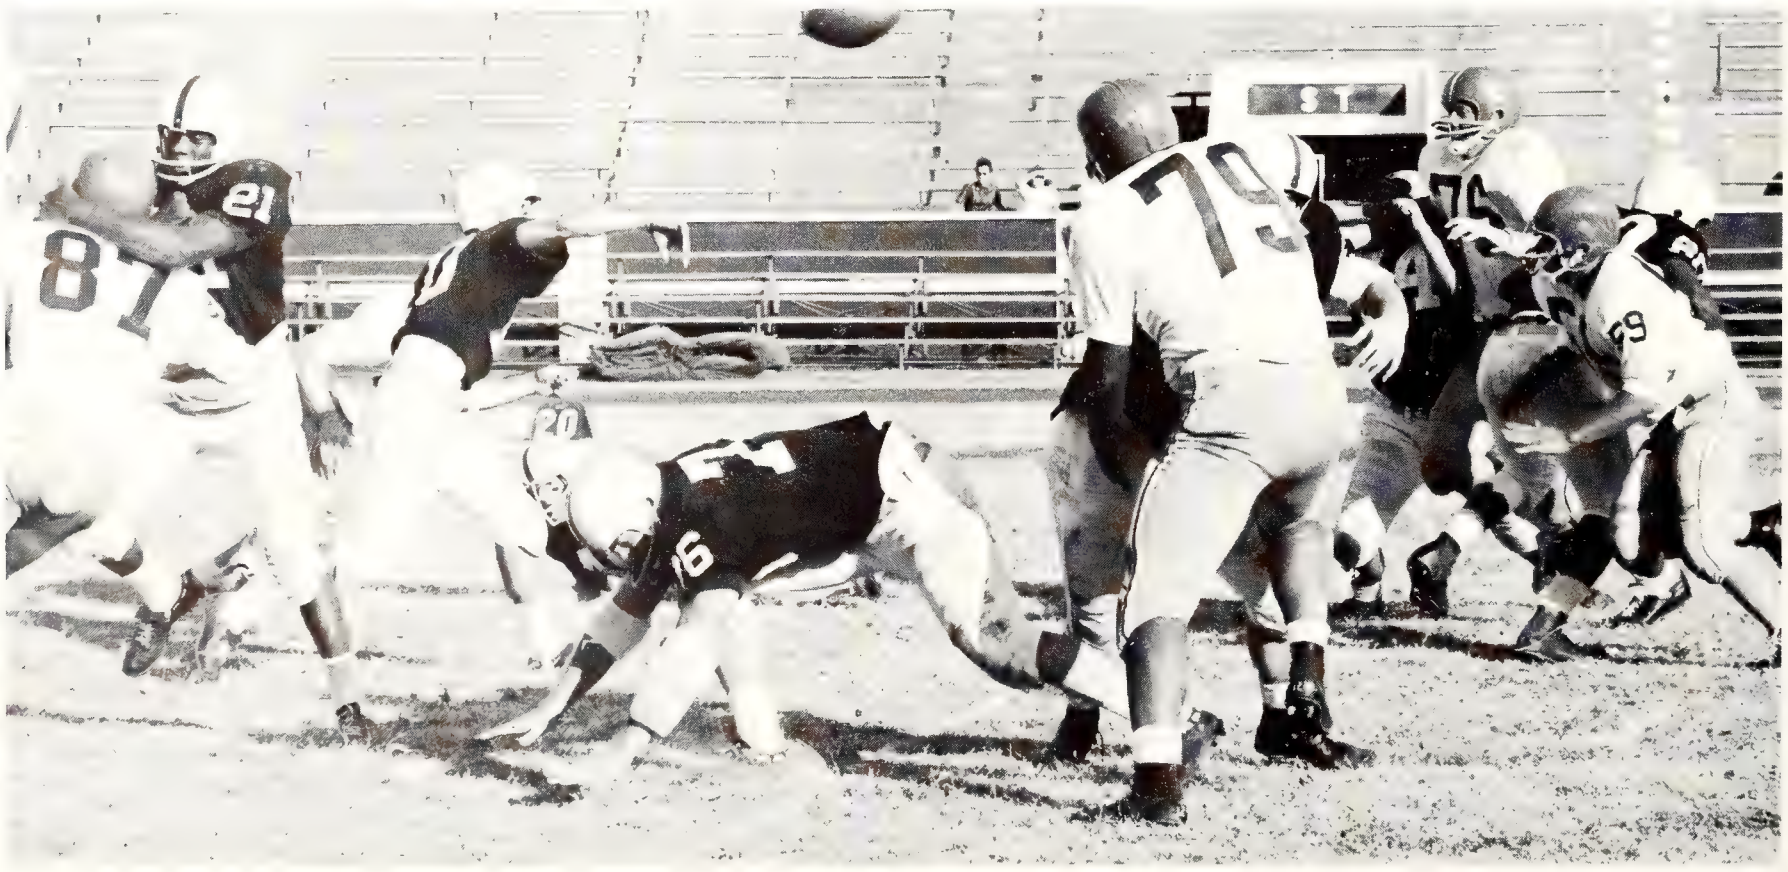
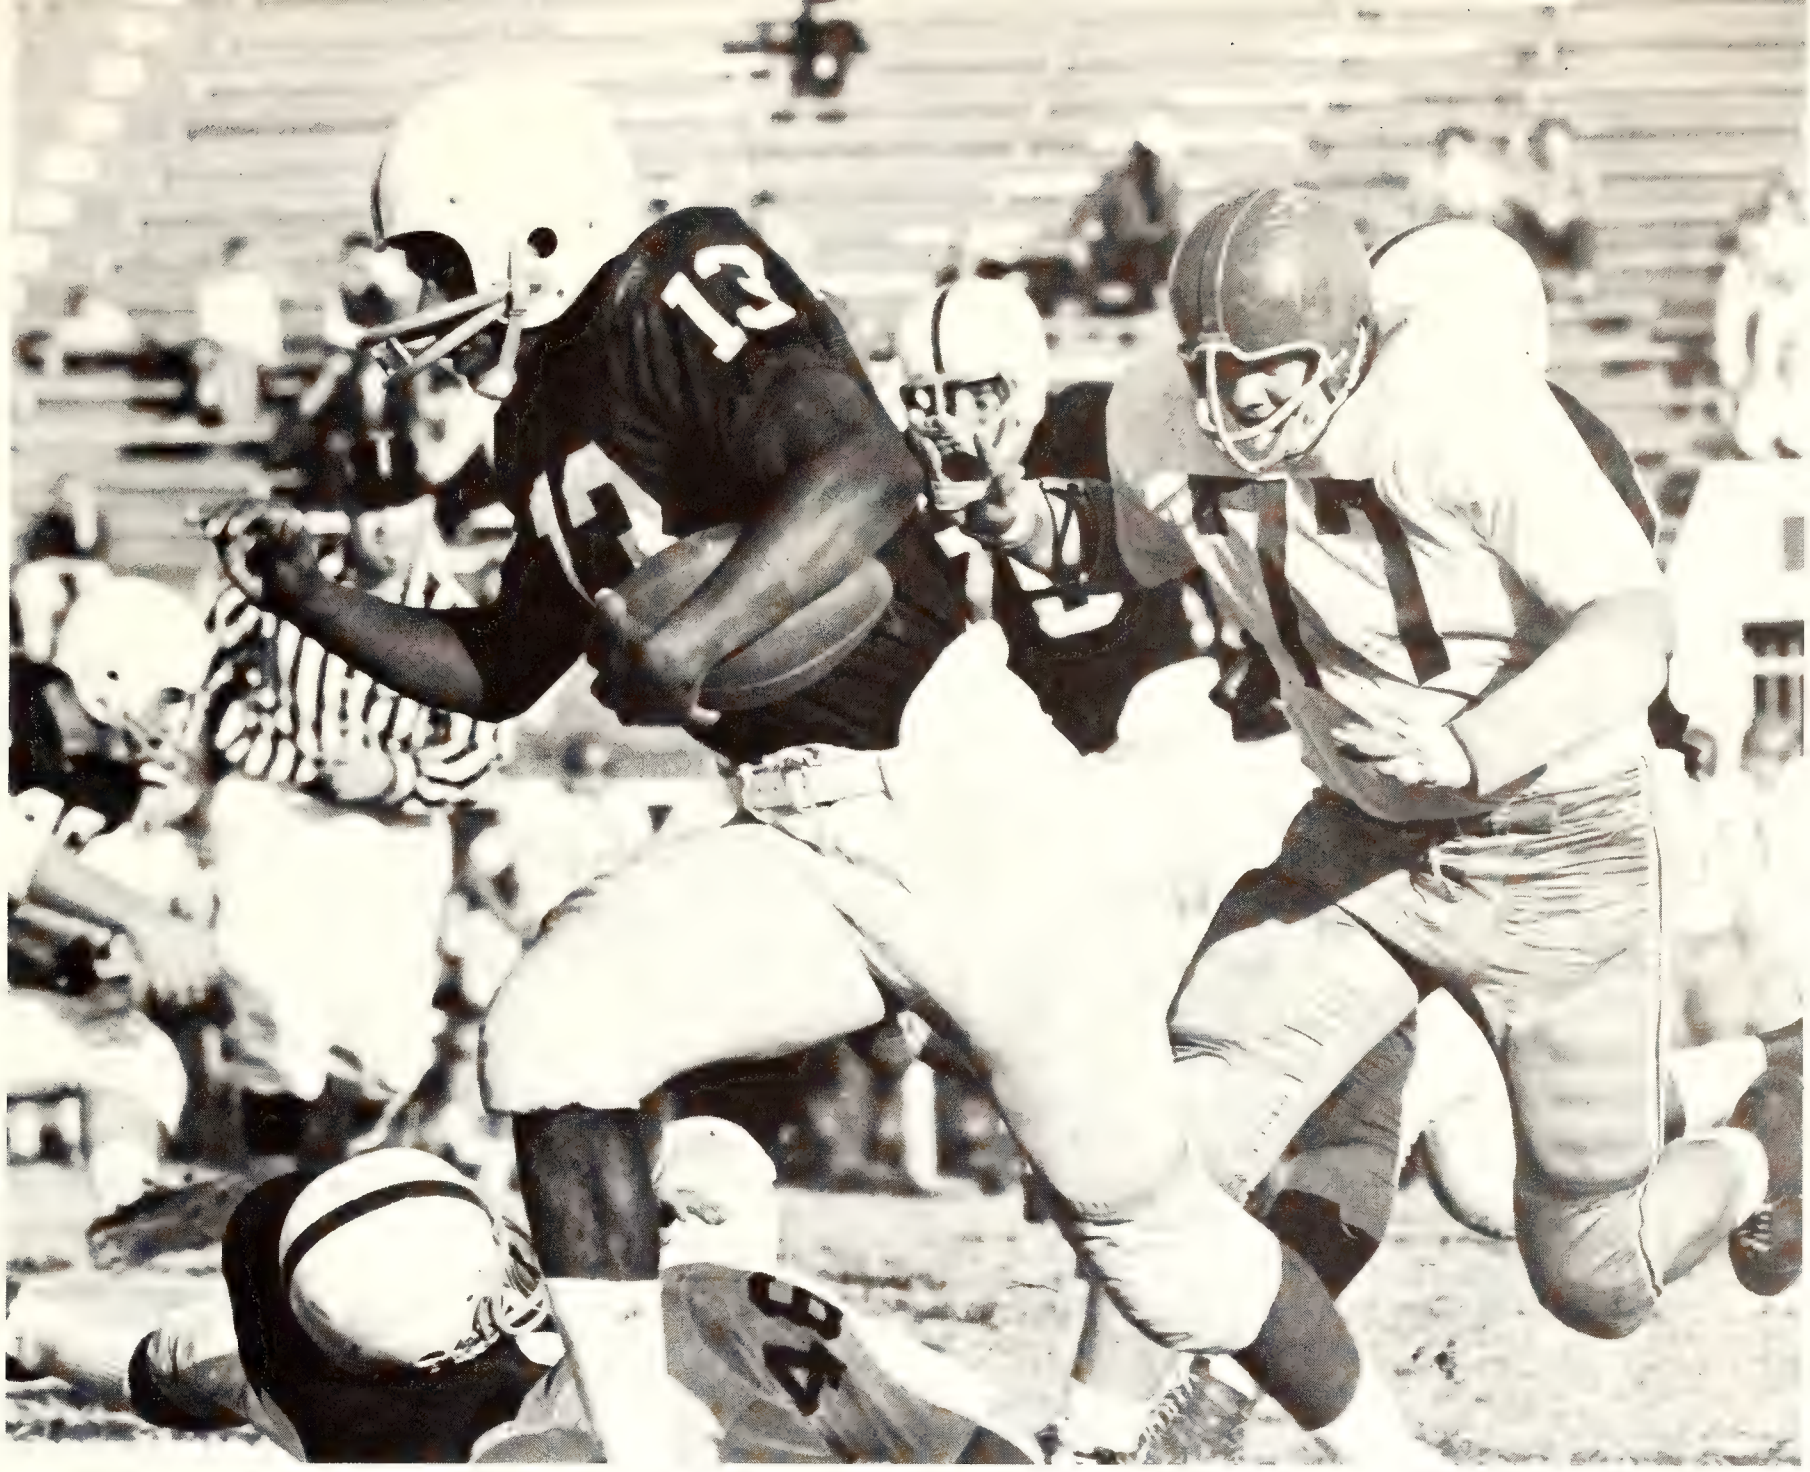
Freshman flame-thrower, Mike White, flings an aerial in the annual game against Jayhawker yearlings. White combined with end Lodis Rhodes for an 86-yard scoring pass in the final minutes of play against KU. The 'Cat frosh lost 13-6.





Off for a short sprint is Jim Wallace, top ground gainer for the freshman team. In the Nebraska tilt, Wallace led the team with 54 yards. Using the air lanes, the rookie players picked up a season's total passing distance of 285 yards.

Jeff Simons and Gary Williams fight double trouble, Indiana's Van Arsdale twins, for a rebound during the tilt with Indiana. Simons and Williams combined to score 31 points, but the Hoosiers won the 74-70 game.

As a Mizzou guard towers over Roy O. Smith, Dennis Berkholtz, a sophomore guard who netted 17 points in the loss to Missouri, moves in to help the fallen 'Cat giant.

Basketball team swoops to Big Eight sixth place

Although Wildcat basketball players picked up Coach Tex Winter's 213th win, the team finished with a 12-13 season record. The squad placed sixth in the Big Eight.

Junior scoring sensation, Ron Paradis, looks for a 'Cat to pass to during the team's 82-71 conquest over Iowa State. Paradis led Wildcat scorers during the season campaign by hitting 294 counters for a 12.3 average during 24 games.

Wildcats meet Creighton in opening home combat

Opening play of the basketball season found the Wildcats meeting Creighton in Ahearn Field House. The 'Cats defeated the Bluejays 96-82 to run up their season's highest game score. When Indiana played in Ahearn, its VanArsdale twins shot 44 points for a Hoosier victory of 74-70. Eighteen points by Jeff Simons topped the 'Cat offensive effort against Indiana. Roy Smith recorded 17 points.

In the Wildcat's first basketball meeting with Southern Illinois, the team snapped out of a first half slump to batter the Salukis 61-48. At the Sunflower Doubleheader, the Wildcats ripped Loyola of Chicago 77-67 as 10 'Cats shared in scoring. In KU's Allen Field House for the second half of the doubleheader, Penn State surprised players by outscoring them 60-59. Simons again led scoring with 33 points.

On the team's west coast swing, the 'Cat's found play in their favor when they defeated Washington 73-66. However, the men lost to Washington the following night. Wildcats romped to a 92-58 win over Oregon, their biggest winning margin of the campaign.

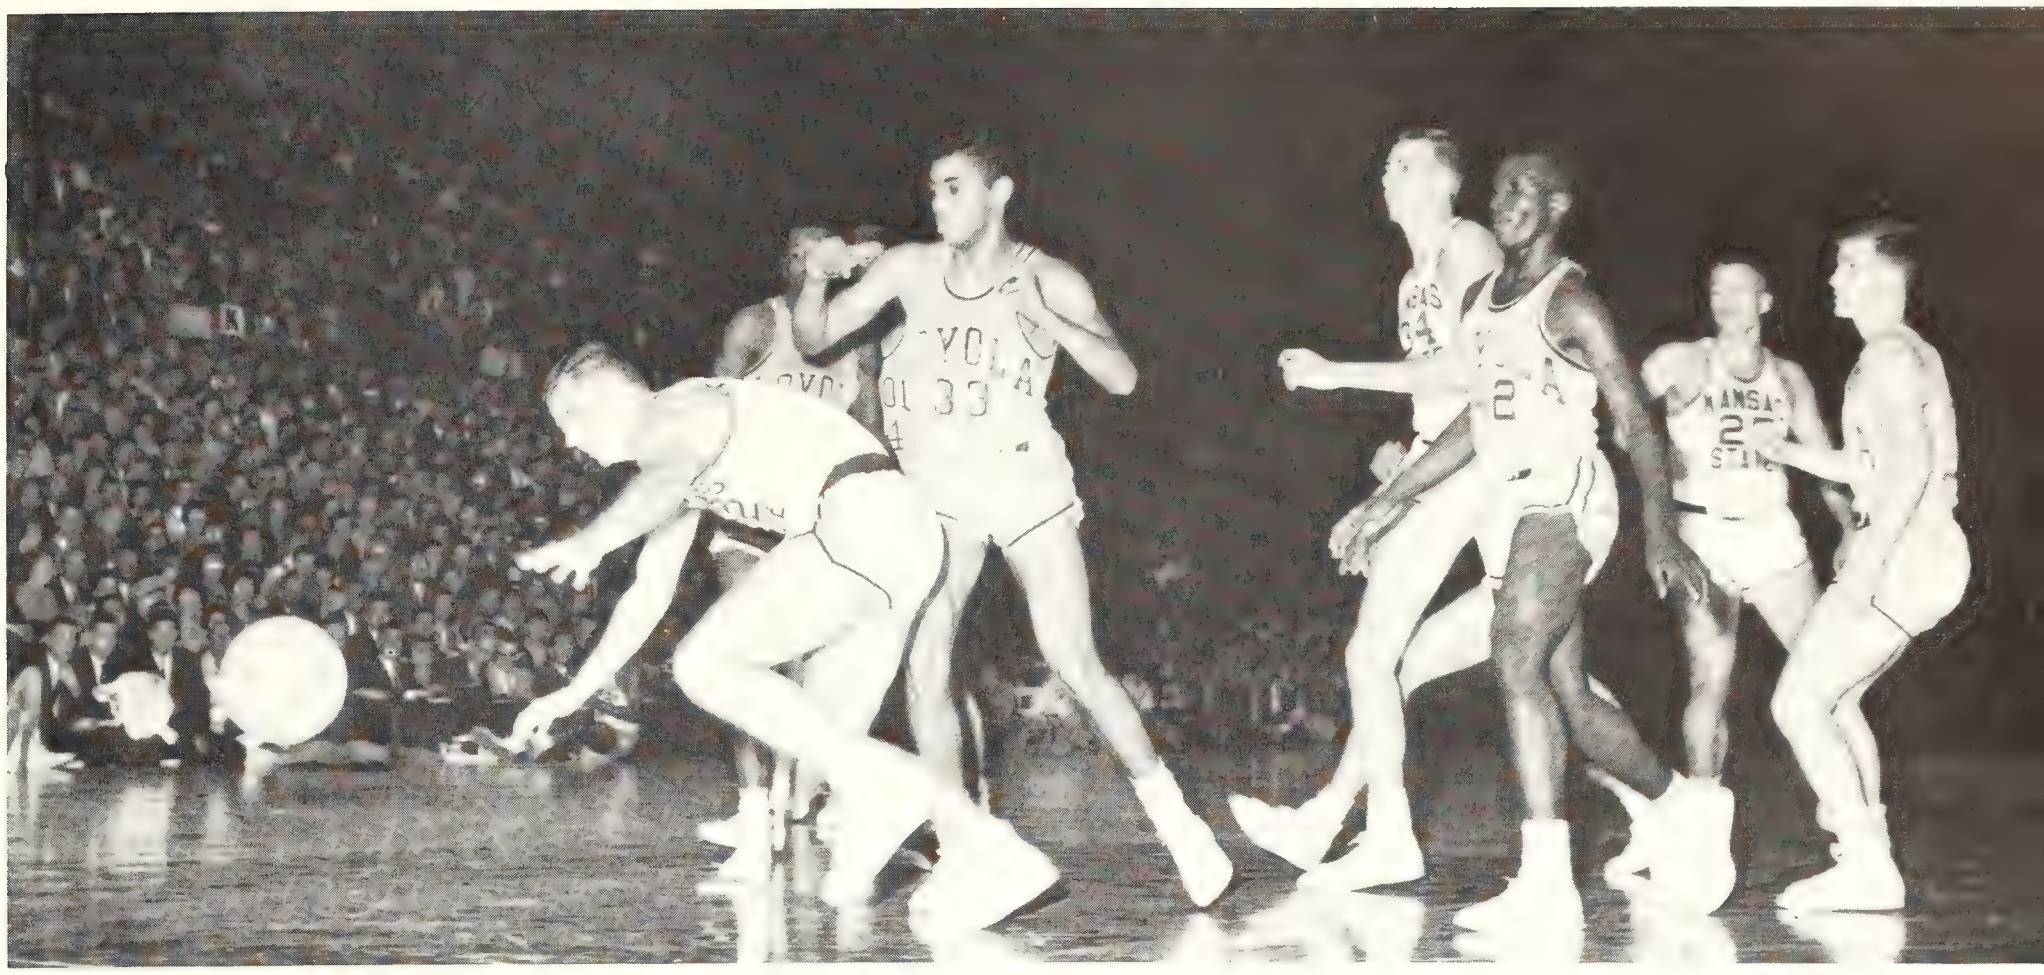
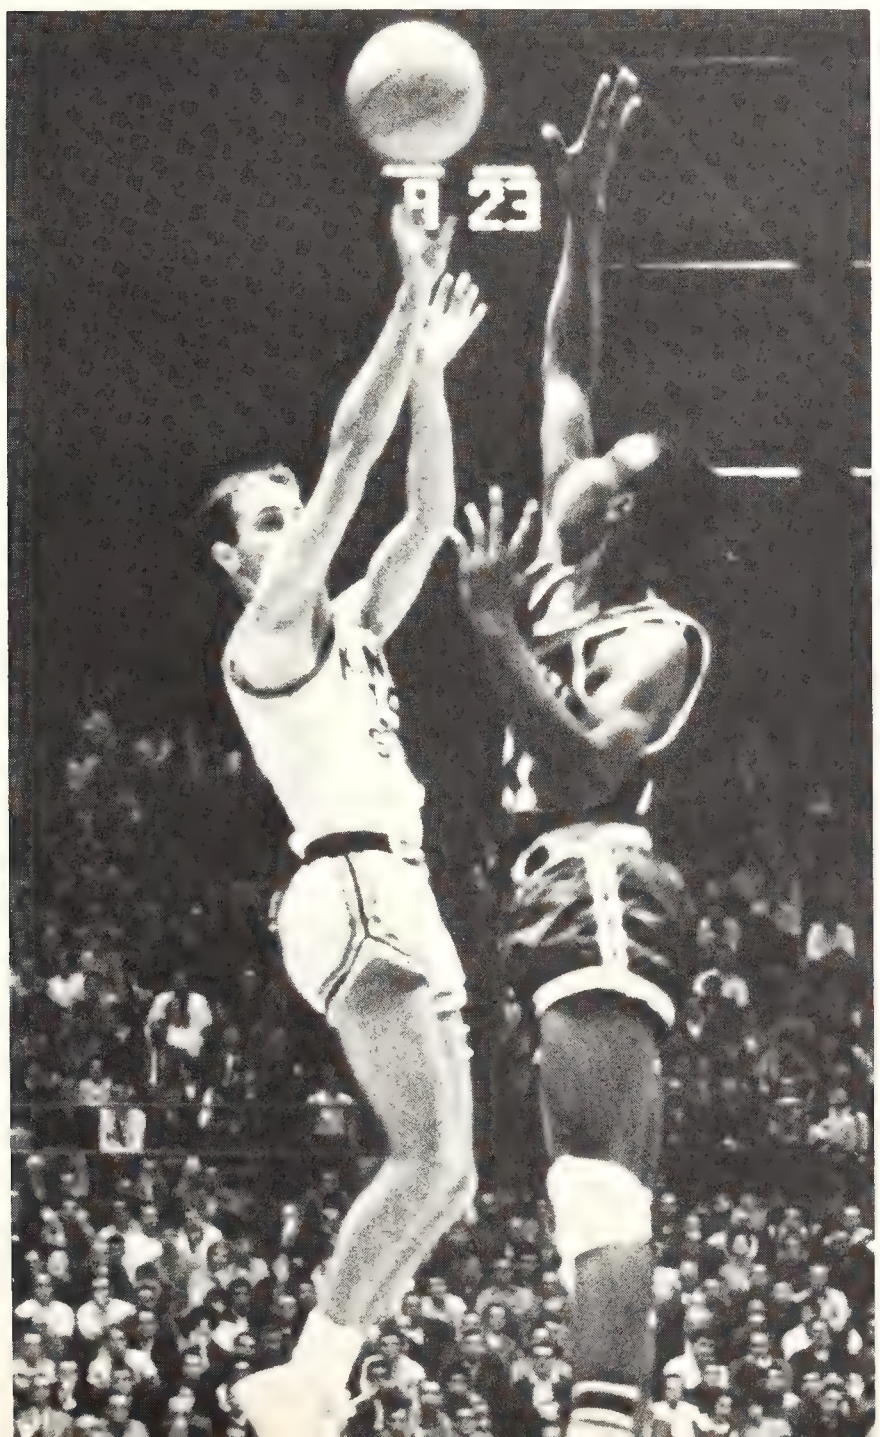
Roy Smith, 6-foot, 10-inch pivot, receives the worst end of a play after he is knocked down during the game with OU.

After setting up a play with a delicate pass, Jeff Simons (21) moves in to fight for the rebound from a shot taken by Jim Hoffmann against Missouri. The Tigers ended the 'Cat's eight-game, home winning streak with a 67-58 victory.



In the game against Loyola of Chicago during the Sunflower Doubleheader, Dick Barnard chases a loose ball. The Wildcats defeated the Ramblers 77-67 in the first meeting of the two schools since 1936 when Loyola upended the Wildcats.

As Jim Hoffmann goes for a rebound, Ron Paradis arches a shot over the out-stretched hand of a Penn State player.



'Cats win two, place third in pre-season tourney

In the pre-season Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City, the 'Cats downed Oklahoma 75-65 in the first game but were edged out by Kansas 54-52 in the second contest. While the team finished third by defeating Missouri 90-62, Kansas players were the eventual champions. Later, on a last second tip-in by Roy Smith, the squad won a game with Oklahoma in the opening conference game.

On the road, the Wildcats met Colorado and Missouri. The Buffaloes scored an 80-77 win despite a 22-point performance by Ron Paradis. Missouri ripped the team 80-68 in an afternoon, televised game. With Roy Smith hitting 25 points, the Wildcats defeated Kansas 71-63. Iowa State dropped the men 91-76, but the 'Cats overcame the loss with an 82-71 win in a return game.

With a 62-57 upset, Nebraska started a four-game 'Cat losing streak. Big Eight winner, Oklahoma State, defeated the 'Cats 52-49.

Basketball players cluster around Roy Smith after they scored a two-point win over OU. Smith, named to the Big Eight All-Academic first team, recorded a goal as the gun sounded to hand the Wildcats a 71-69 victory over Oklahoma.

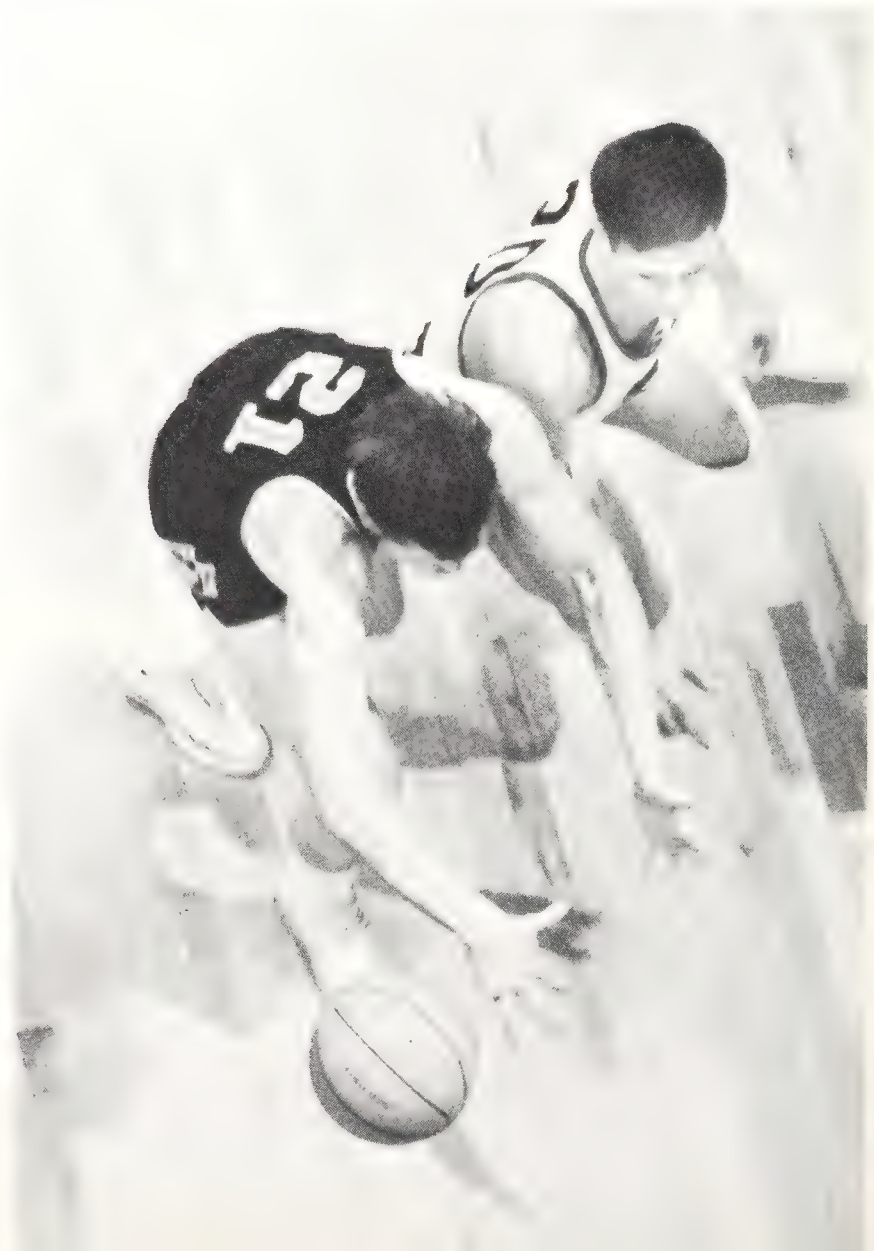
'Cats fight losing skein, win finale at Nebraska

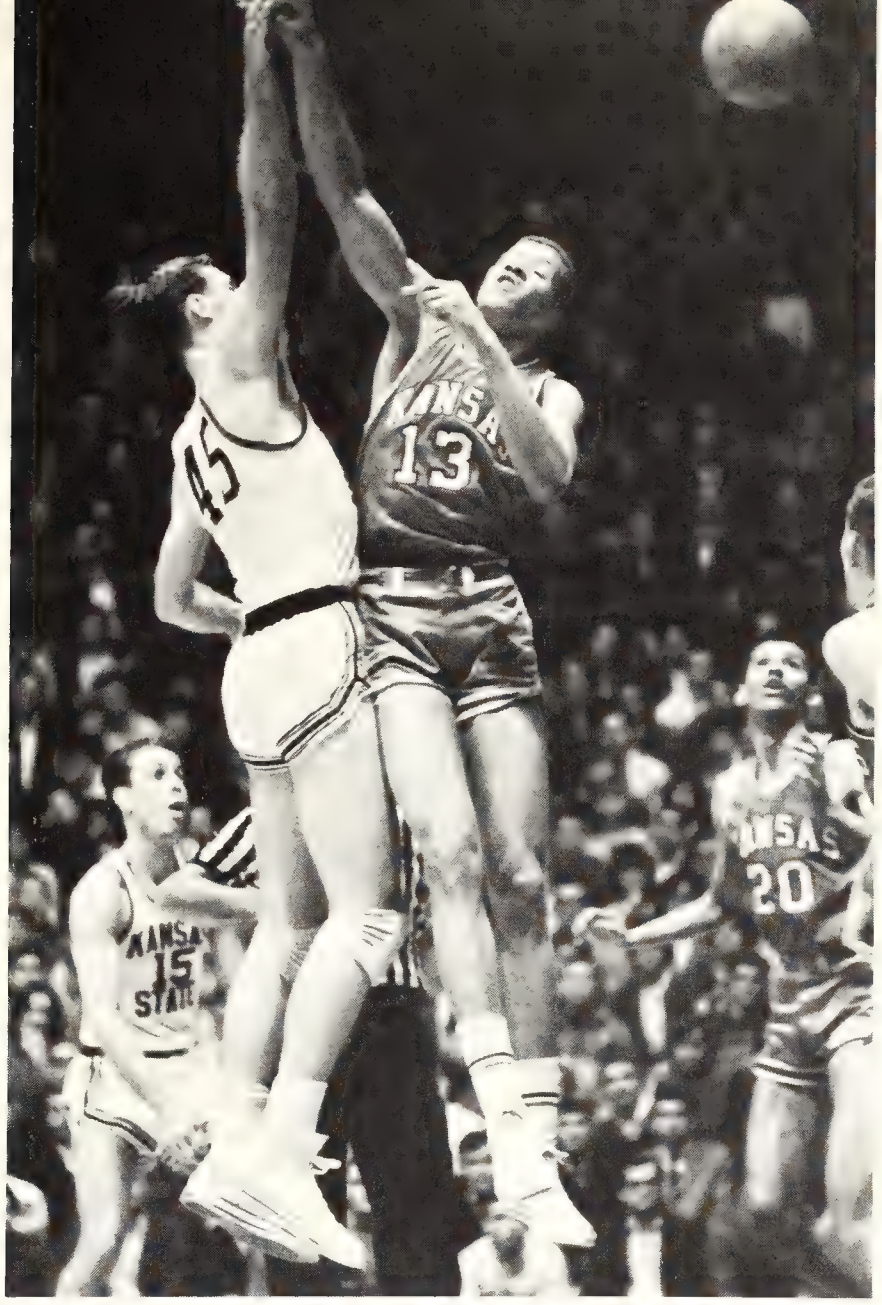
Oklahoma kept the Wildcat losing skein alive with an 80-65 victory in the third season game between the two teams. Ron Paradis triggered 'Cat scoring by netting 15 points. To avenge an early season loss, KU jumped into an early game lead of 11-2 and pinned the team 86-22.

Wildcats broke the losing streak with a 65-50 win over Colorado. Smith led the 'Cat assault with 14 points. In a return match with Oklahoma State, the players lost 69-60 to the Cowboys.

In the final home encounter, the men sustained a 67-58 defeat by Missouri. For the season's finale at Lincoln, the Wildcats stormed over the Cornhuskers 79-67. Sophomore Dennis Berkholtz recorded 19 points.

From a basket's-eye view, Larry Weigel makes a steal from Colorado's Bob Bauers in the 65-50 'Cat basketball victory.





Fierce competition between Roy Smith and a KU player spurs Smith to complete his best season game, netting 25 points.

Grabbing a rebound over Missouri's Ned Monsees, Sammy Robinson adds to 111 baskets he scored during the season.

Freshman cage season closes with 4-4 record

After four early season victories, the freshman basketball team slumped to a 4-4 over-all mark. With three high school All-American recruits, the yearlings opened with an 86-59 win over Chanute Junior College. On the road against Nebraska, the squad whipped the Cornhuskers 73-71.

Meeting University of Kansas freshmen twice, the 'Cats recorded losing scores both times. The freshmen ended the season defeated by Parsons Junior College, KU and Missouri in a final three-game home stand.

Four swimmers earn All-Conference berths

Four Wildcat swimmers were named to the All-Conference team. The squad posted a 5-4 dual record. Paced by sophomore Bob Duenkel, who won two events, the swimmers placed fifth in the Big Eight meet. Ranked twelfth in NCAA contention, Duenkel became the first Wildcat ever to place in a national meet.

Gymnasts set records, earn fifth in conference

Ending the season with a 5-5 dual record, the gymnastics team finished fifth in the Big Eight Conference meet. Lee Denton and Stan Husted paced the squad in a record setting season. Denton set a Wildcat record for most points scored by recording 210 points. Husted also established a mark in the side horse with 53 points, including eight first place finishes in 10 gymnastic meets.

'Cats pull out of cellar in conference rankings

Coach DeLoss Dodds, in his first season at the helm of the Wildcat trackmen, guided K-State thinclads out of the Big Eight cellar into seventh place. Despite injuries to key personnel, Dodds' squad posted a one-win, three-loss dual record for the conference meets.

Injuries to valuable individual performers was a problem for the Wildcats. Bill Floerke, top javelin launcher; Don Payne, quartermiler for the K-State club and dashman Dale Alexander were hampered throughout spring track season with major injuries.

Bob Hines, junior broad jumper, headed Wildcat action with most points earned during the season. Hines scored in each of K-State's duals and in the Arkansas, Texas and Colorado relays. Only meet in which the jumper failed to score was the Kansas Relays.

High-flying Steve Rogers heaves himself into the sand pit during broad jump competition at the Missouri meet.

During first season as head track coach, DeLoss Dodds times a practice run around the Memorial Stadium cinder track.

In decathlon competition, trackster Steve Rogers glides over a pole vault bar. Rogers earned fourth place in the ten grueling decathlon events during the Kansas Relays.

Wildcat hurdlers Tony Beard, Jack Hooker and Don Bouchey leg it down to the wire against Missouri, but only Beard placed for the 'Cats. He finished with second in the dual and also took third in high hurdles at the Colorado contest.

Strained expressions cover the faces of Wildcat and Missouri sprinters as they explode from starting blocks in the Missouri dual. 'Cat trackmen scored, but not enough to ward off a 80½ to 64½ loss suffered at the hands of the Tigers.

Wildcats score points in relays, single action

With most scores earned by the team in any of the relays, Wildcats placed in seven events at the Arkansas Relays. At Stillwater five men ranked in Big Eight action while in the season's only triangular action, Wildcat trackmen compiled 56 points to overtake Texas Tech's 32 counters. Oklahoma led scoring at the meet with 88 points. During the Stillwater meet Dale Alexander, the squad's top sprinter, placed in the 100- and 220-yard dashes.

Claiming a 266.4-foot toss, javelin bomber Bill Floerke was ranked first in the nation early in the year. He finished the season fourth among national javelin launchers. In final American Olympic trials, the K-Stater placed fifth. Although injured later in the season, Floerke snared top honors at the first spring meet with a 251.7-foot toss.

1964 OUTDOOR TRACK

Kansas finished first at the Big Eight meet, followed by Nebraska, Missouri, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Colorado, K-State and Iowa State.

In the mile relay, Bill Selbe races to the finish line to secure first place for the 'Cat track squad at the Missouri dual.

Late peg from the Colorado outfield allows Wildcat Sam Somerhalder to score a run in the last home game. Somerhalder, 'Cat outfielder, had the fourth highest batting average and was second in runs on the team.

Wauthier's 'Cats finish in Big Eight basement

Because of frequent fielding lapses and the lack of timely hitting, Coach Ray Wauthier's Wildcat baseball squad finished in the Big Eight Conference cellar, sporting a 5 win and 18 loss record. A stout defense, one of Wauthier's trademarks in the past, was missing from the games. Numerous errors were made, leading to 45 unearned runs.

Coach Wauthier, in his final year at the helm of the Wildcat baseball team, experimented with the line-up, hoping to get the team to snap out of a season-long batting slump. The team average was .168; their opponents batted the Wildcat pitching staff for a .272 average. The leading hitter on the squad was Joe Beck with a .244 average.

Coach Ray Wauthier helps Wildcat baseballers Charley Farmer and Joseph Beck develop their batting eyes.

Taking a healthy swing, Ed Avery meets a ball. Avery connected enough times to drive in 11 runs for the Wildcats.

Hustling umpire gets out of Bill Matan's way as the big Wildcat catcher goes into first base for an easy single.

Five game road series opens play for baseball

The Wildcats opened seasonal play with a five game non-conference road trip, beginning with Memphis State. The 'Cats posted a two win, three loss slate on the trip. The opening conference opponents, Kansas, gave the Wildcats a rough welcome by winning two of three and establishing a season losing trend for Wauthier's batmen.

Close games played an important part in the Wildcats' 18 losses during the season. The squad played ten games in which the margin of victory or defeat was two runs or less. They lost seven of them. The Wildcats ended the season with three games against Colorado and hopes of climbing out of the Big Eight basement. They lost all three to the Buffaloes.

Golfers pull sixth spot in Big Eight tournament

Under rookie coarch Bill Guthridge, the varsity golf squad finished with sixth place berth in the Big Eight tournament. In his first year, Guthridge led the 'Cats to a 10-11 record. Top Wildcat linkster was James Colbert who placed second in the NCAA golf meet.

Rowing team organizes, opens season with win

Rowing, the University's newest sport, claimed title as the oldest intercollegiate team sport. Coach Don Rose recruited 25 men for the Wildcat rowing squad which completed its first season on Tuttle Creek.

In their first race, the 'Cat oarsmen propelled their shell to a first place finish in an intercollegiate race on the Mississippi River. While the Wildcat team edged out St. Thomas College, Minnesota pulled into third. In their second start, a triangular at Lafayette, Ind., the oarsmen fell to third place. With Purdue placing first, Michigan State nipped out the 'Cat squad.

Skimming across Tuttle Creek reservoir, men on the year-old Wildcat rowing team demonstrate their prowess at propelling the sleek, 40-foot shell to meet-winning speeds. The eight-man crew is directed by a coxswain in the rear.

Gunnery squad finishes third in national rankings

Led by All-Americans Robert Dorian and Margaret Thompson, the rifle team captured the Big Eight crown for the fifth time in six years. The squad ranked third in the nation for the season.

Out of the 13 teams competing at a University of Nebraska invitational meet, the riflemen finished first. The squad earned first place trophy in the K-State Invitational Turkey Shoot, in which 50 teams entered. With a 10-team increase in competitors, the turkey shoot became the largest rifle tournament in the nation.

At a National Rifle Association section tourney at the University of Missouri, the Wildcat team also placed first. Against 15 teams in the NRA meet, 'Cat gunners carted off three of the five individual trophies.

Sports participation wins crown for Kappa women

Although Kappa Kappa Gamma placed first in only one sports event, the sorority earned enough participation points in other sports to win 1964 women's intramurals. In their one championship sport, Kappas captured the swimming title for the second consecutive year. The Women's Athletic Association presented a trophy to Kappas for first place in over-all rankings.

Off-Campus Women won the volleyball crown for the second consecutive year by outscoring Van Zile Hall in two games. Boyd Hall overpowered Alpha Delta Pi 10-6 to win the intramural kickball championship. With an undefeated slate, Judith Burgess of Putnam Hall won the tennis singles title for her women's residence hall.

Sandra Hick, women's intramural director, co-ordinated the eight sport coed schedule for the second year. Along with fields near Aggieville, the women's intramural program used facilities in Nichols Gymnasium.

Dormitory division joins men's intramural roster

Pawnee floor of Goodnow Hall captured the first team championship in the newly formed dormitory division. The men were undefeated in touch football and basketball. Goodnow Hall's Jerome Hantman of Seneca floor won dormitory tennis singles.

Dominating the independent division, the undefeated Drillers captured the intramural sports titles in football and basketball action. In fraternity play, Beta Theta Pi won the touch football crown. A Delta Upsilon squad completed a perfect season to earn the Greek basketball championship.

Enrollment sets summer record

Setting an enrollment record, 3,448 students registered for the summer session. Ninety Peace Corps trainees attended campus classes.

Workshop sessions sponsored by the music, speech and journalism departments brought more than 800 high school students to campus for short term study.

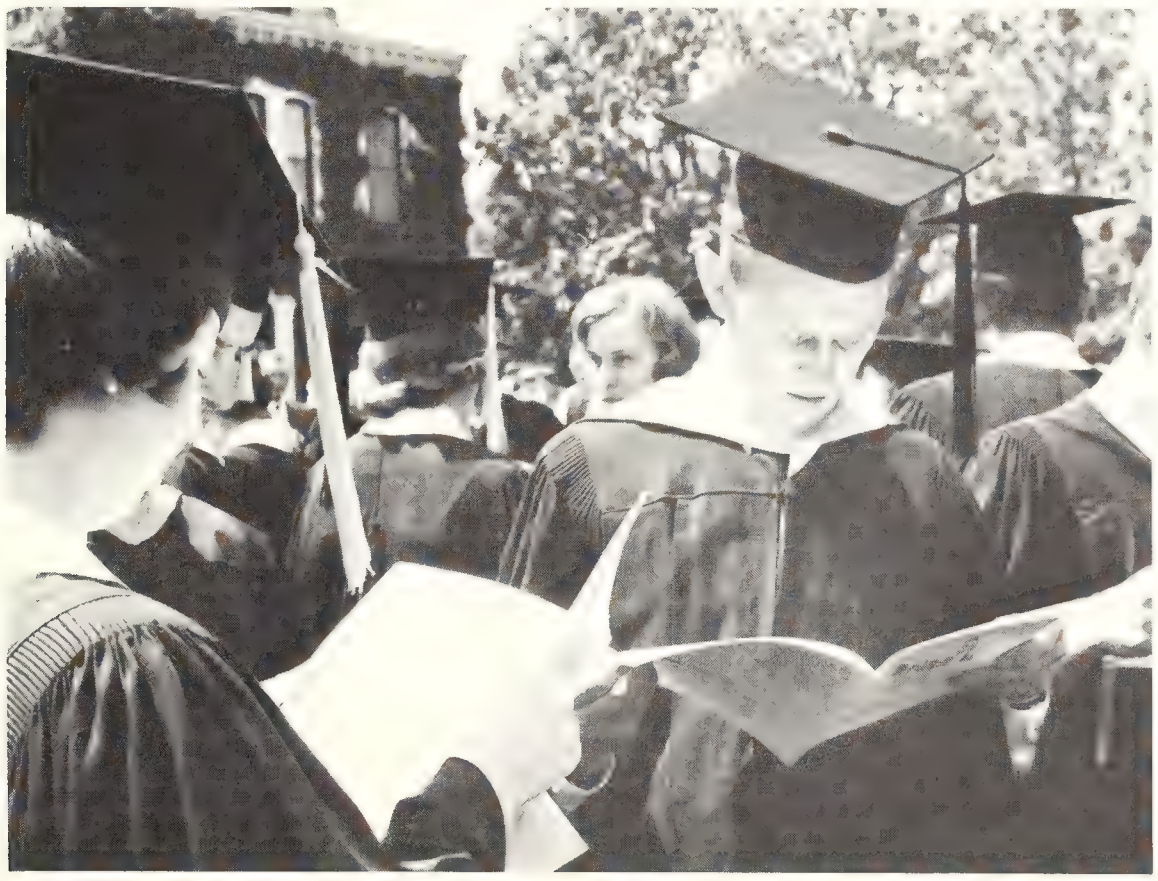
Summer entertainment included the Beers Family who gave a folk singing program. The Kaleidoscope Players presented the "World of Carl Sandburg," and summer dramatists produced the comedy, "Marriage-Go-Round."

In the K-State Players' sophisticated comedy, "Marriage-Go-Round," a dean of women and her middle-aged, professor husband discuss their marital problems.

During her physical examination at summer pre-enrollment, a new student has her blood pressure taken. In addition to student care, Student Health and Manhattan Health Service workers inspect sanitary conditions in living groups.

Kansas Governor John Anderson and President James A. McCain lead the march of nearly 1,800 graduating students to ceremonies in Ahearn Field House. The governor spoke shortly to the degree candidates in June, 1964 exercises.

For June graduates the last requirement for a degree is attendance at commencement. Included in the degrees conferred were 484 graduate level certificates.



President grants college degrees

President James A. McCain conferred degrees to nearly 1,800 students at June, 1964 commencement exercises. More than 1,000 students, who had graduated in August and January, were invited to participate in the exercises.

George Beadle, president of the University of Chicago, addressed the students. Beadle was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree by Vice-President William Bevan.

Orientation activity slate welcomes frosh enrollees, transfer students

Orientation introduced almost 2,700 freshmen and many transfer students to intellectual and extracurricular opportunities at K-State.

Curriculum meetings, a new part of Orientation, were conducted by each of the University's colleges. They acquainted new students with administrators, faculty members and college facilities. Student organizations in several colleges helped conduct tours.

Used experimentally this year were discussion groups on the book, "The Adventure of Learning in College." Copies of the book had been available to students during Pre-Enrollment for summer reading.

Campus tours, lecture sessions and the AWS All-Freshmen Conference, along with the Wildcat Warmup and Watermelon Feed, several dances and the Freshman Talent Show finished the week.

Mythology wins Y-O competition

"Let's Quit Horsin', Helen" won 1964 Y-Orpheum for Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Chi. The skit was a satire on the plight of Helen after her capture by the Trojans. Action explained why Athenians took so long to rescue Helen.

Judges awarded a second place tie to two skits. "Operation Deepfreeze," presented by a Delta Delta Delta-Sigma Alpha Epsilon team, and "It's All in the Brew," by Kappa Alpha Theta and Acacia, won second place honors.

In action taken by the Y-Orpheum committee, the 1965 production was renamed Harlequinade. H-Q represented a masked, Shakespearian figure.

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Chi stage "Let's Quit Horsin', Helen." Heroine of the satire based on ancient mythology was Helen, who is shown holding a stein.

While guarding Santa's workshop at the North Pole, Tri Delta elves confuse Sig Alph gangsters by singing "Now Listen, Mr. Gangster." In the production which tied for second, the gangsters ponder the worth of overtaking the shop.

Keeping the show moving, Y-O master of ceremonies pantomimes, introduces acts.

Weird cackles fill the Auditorium as Kappa Alpha Theta and Acacia perform "It's All in the Brew," the skit which won for them a second place tie.

As judges announce Y-O winners, bedlam breaks loose among members of Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Chi, who took first with their satirical skit.

Coeds in hillbilly attire wave campaign posters while boosting their favorite Bovinian party candidate in the pre-convention parade. Students in each Mock Political Convention delegation wore costumes to depict a state's native flavor.

Bovinians select Lodge, Johnson, don costumes for campaign tactics

Bovinian party forces were split as Henry Cabot Lodge was nominated for President in the 1964 bi-partisan Mock Political Convention. President Lyndon B. Johnson was chosen vice-presidential candidate for the Bovinian party slate.

High-spirited students donned native costumes of a state to represent its delegation in the campaign. A parade, demonstrations and authentic campaign tactics added convention flavor.

Aims of the two major political parties were presented to campaigners by Nebraska's Governor Frank Morrison and Arizona's representative John Rhodes on the opening day of the three-day convention.

Weary campaigners await convention ballot results in Ahearn.

Rodeo rankings go to K-Staters

More than 100 students from 10 schools in a four-state area competed in K-State's third Intercollegiate Rodeo.

In both men's and women's team events, K-Staters placed second. Top honors in calf roping, steer wrestling and ribbon roping were won by Max Worthington while trophy for best fraternity steer riding team went to FarmHouse. Rodeo Queen Linda Shambaugh reigned over festivities.

Three K-Staters were sent to National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association finals in Douglas, Wyo. Arden Vernon represented the area as regional champion bull rider. Franchone DeArmond earned runner up position to All-Around Cowgirl of the World.

With action packed jumping, bareback bronc riding is a favorite rodeo event. Performance of the horse as well as horsemanship of the cowboy is judged.

Before biting the dust, Brahma bull contestants must stay aboard eight seconds.

As well as providing comedy between rodeo events, a professional clown acts as a bullfighter to screen the escape of bucked riders from the contest ring.

Explaining the importance of good soil nutrition to plant growth, agriculture students demonstrate methods of soil testing. Ag Science Day displays and demonstrations were visited by several thousand Kansas high school students.

Ag Science Day stresses college

"Education in Agriculture Means Mobility," theme of 1964 Ag Science Day, stressed the value of university education and contributions made by the College of Agriculture to research. Janet Janssen, Barnwarmer Queen, reigned over Ag Science Day activities.

Displays aimed at high school students emphasized the job mobility opened by education in agricultural careers.

Block and Bridle Club placed first in the agricultural display competition. Its display depicted 10 areas of animal husbandry study.

Showmen enter Royal contest

Showing 13 classes of University-owned animals, students competed in the 1964 Little American Royal. Judges named John Nagel grand champion showman and George Raymond reserve champion showman.

In the dairy classes, Carrol Campbell was chosen champion dairy showman. Reserve champion was Nancy Tjaden.

Sponsored by Block and Bridle Club and Dairy Club, the Royal was dedicated to W. H. Warren, a retired professor.

Hospitality Day uses 26 exhibits

With a backdrop of 26 exhibits, "A Bright New World of Home Economics" was presented as 1964 Hospitality Day. Nearly 3,000 high school girls and teachers attended the annual home economics program in Justin Hall.

Classwork of the six College of Home Economics departments was portrayed in the exhibits. Each display stressed advancements made in professional home economics.

At the Hospitality Day style show, a student models church attire. The model sewed her outfit in a Home Economics clothing construction course.

Standing in the warm fall sun, a part of the more than 7,000 persons attending Open House wait to view student displays in Dykstra Veterinary Hospital.

Visitors inspect Vet Open House

More than 7,000 persons inspected veterinary facilities at Veterinary Medicine Open House. The 287 students in veterinary medicine prepared displays spaced through the laboratories and animal housing areas of Dykstra Hospital. Eighth annual Open House was proclaimed climax to Kansas Veterinary Medicine Week by Gov. John Anderson.

Among Open House exhibits were displays concerning small and large animal medicine, clinical pathology, bacteriology, anatomy and public health. In other animal-oriented features, the student veterinarians planned a dog and cat show, exhibitions of horse jumping and a Special Open House presentation by the Army Veterinary Corps.

Accustomed to spectators' stares, a cat remains aloof to viewers. Five cat and eighty dog breeds were represented in the Open House animal show.

As they reign over Engineers' and Architects' Open House, Mary Lynn Haymaker, St. Patricia, and Ted Kelley, St. Pat, take an inspection tour of the curriculum exhibits.

Colleges rename annual weekend Engineers', Architects' Open House

Renaming Engineers' Open House as Engineers' and Architects' Open House widened the scope of the annual two-day event in March. An estimated 10,000 persons viewed the exhibits, which included a turbine-powered car. Also displayed was an air defense nuclear weapon, the USAF AGM-28A Hound Dog missile.

Agricultural Engineering won first place in Engineers' and Architects' Open House competition. The departments of civil and mechanical engineering were second and third place winners. With his electrocardiogram machine, John Bridwell won the best individual project division.

Displays were judged on five points: originality, arrangement and attraction, continuity of theme, effort required and interest value.

Friends of Terry Biery congratulate him after he was named Favorite Man on Campus at the Sadie Hawkins FMOC Dance. More than 1,200 coeds voted following a campaign in which 10 candidates visited sororities and women's dormitories.

Election reveals women's favorite

After watching the skits of 10 FMOC candidates, coeds elected Terry Biery Favorite Man on Campus. Biery, representing FarmHouse, was crowned at the FMOC Dance.

More than 1,200 women voted in the Home Economics Council contest. Lawrence Weigel, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and John Christensen, Goodnow Hall were elected as first and second runners-up.

Pledges choose IPC royal court

Richard Massieon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Nancy Lee, Kappa Kappa Gamma, were chosen IPC King and Queen by Greek pledges. Proceeds from the annual IPC Dance, sponsored by Interfraternity Pledge Council, went to a scholarship fund. Rodney and the Blazers played at the Dance.

Interfraternity Pledge Council became the first Greek pledge group in the nation to solicit money for the Heart Fund. Pledges collected more than $1,600. The council also sold Greek Week concessions at sororities and fraternities.

At the Interfraternity Pledge Council Dance, the crowd joins the IPC King and Queen for the opening dance after crowning. Rodney and the Blazers played for the annual Greek dance sponsored by fraternity and sorority pledges.

Musicians stage series concerts

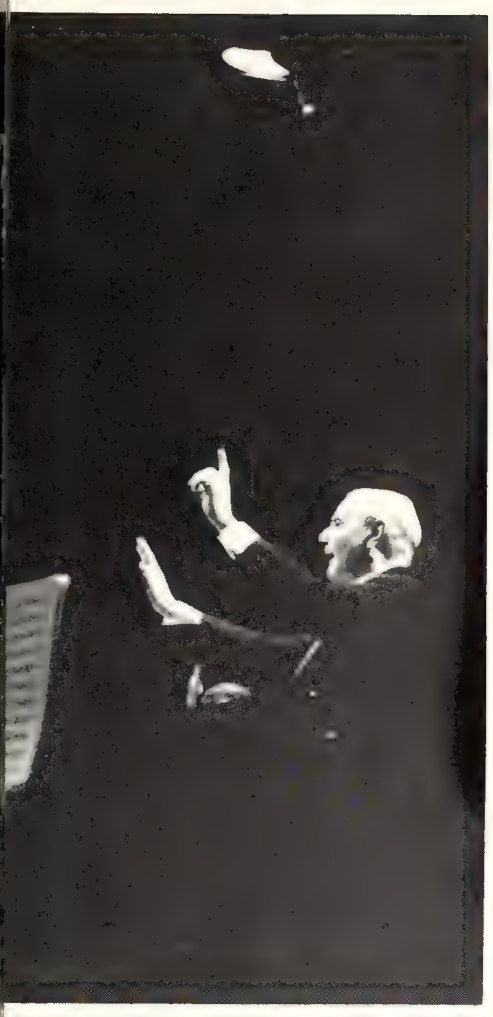
Featuring internationally famous music talent, the Manhattan Artist Series and Chamber Music Series sponsored nine concerts on a combined budget of $14,000.

In its twenty-second season, the Artist Series expanded from four to five concerts. Music groups booked by the Artist Series included the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, Solisti Di Zagreb and opera singer Mary Curtis-Verna.

Four professional groups were hired by the Chamber Music Series. The Danzi Woodwind Quartet and the Paganini Quartet presented two of the concerts.

Appearing for the third time in the United States, the 75-voice National Swedish Chorus opens the Artist Series. The all male chorus was organized in 1888.

After the first Chamber Music concert, the Alfred Deller Consort discusses musical techniques. The vocalists record music of the Renaissance and Baroque eras.



American pianist and first prize winner of the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition in 1962, Ralph Votapek performs during the second Artist Series program.

Following a presentation of Beethoven selections, the Alma Trio accepts applause. The chamber music ensemble of piano, violin and cello was organized 18 years ago.

Union schedules big name talent

Harry James and his band appeared as the first big name entertainment of the season. Nina Simone, a blues singer, performed with the James band for Parents' Day.

Largest attendance was recorded at the Johnny Mathis concert. Mathis, on tour with the high school and college age Young Americans, performed for almost three hours.

A folk song concert was also given by the Modern Folk Quartet. The Union Campus Entertainment Committee, which scheduled big name talent, booked folk singer Josh White, but cancelled him after the auditorium fire.

Trumpeter Harry James and his band perform for 1,500 persons at a Parents' Day concert. The appearance was part of a tour, James' first in many years.

Before 3,000 persons, Johnny Mathis sings a medley of his greatest hits.

Blues singer Nina Simone plays the piano while she sings during the Harry James concert. Drummer Buddy Rich and comedian John Byner were also featured.

Appearing with Johnny Mathis in costumes of patriotic colors, the Young Americans sing both folk and popular songs.

Modern Folk Quartet members, who met and began singing together in Hawaii, specialize in up-to-date folk music.

1964 Homecoming Queen Deanna McCracken Smurthwaite Scholarship House

First non-Greek in more than 20 years to be crowned Homecoming Queen, Deanna McCracken represented the Smurthwaite House

Deanna was elected by a student body vote, while before the election, a faculty-student committee narrowed 19 candidates to five finalists. Henry Bubb of the Kansas Board of Regents presented the queen at the KU football game.

'My Fair Lady' production, game kick off Homecoming festivities

Homecoming was spiced by presentation of "My Fair Lady," by a cast of 40, and a near victory over the University of Kansas football squad. Vandals failed in an attempt to ruin the weekend although they burned five Homecoming floats after the parade. The winning entry of Alpha Tau Omega-Alpha Delta Pi suffered damages of nearly $1,400.

Excitement ran high as Queen Deanna McCracken and her court presided over a Homecoming eve bonfire and pep rally. A parade of 42 entries preceded the afternoon gridiron game in which KU scored a 7-0 victory. The Warren Durrett Orchestra played for "Haunting Memories," the Homecoming Ball which completed festivities.

In the open class, a victory fire provides the theme of West Stadium's winning float. Forty-two units, including 26 floats, participated in the Homecoming parade.

With its winning float in single entry competition, Alpha Gamma Rho forecasts a Wildcat victory over the KU Jayhawks. A near-capacity crowd, largest of the season, attended the game which coincided with the annual KU gridiron battle.

Judge chooses yearbook queen

From a bevy of 24 campus beauties, Gene Botsford, an outstanding figure in the world of professional photography, selected the 1965 Royal Purple Queen and four attendants. Nominated by campus living groups, the candidates were judged by Botsford on photogenic beauty alone.

Botsford, who has taught portraiture at Winona School of Professional Photography, earned the degree of Master of Photography. He was chosen to photograph Jacque Mercer in her 1950 reign as Miss America. For distinguished service to the profession, the Portrait Division of Professional Photographers awarded a citation to the judge. After operating a portrait studio in Phoenix, Ariz., Botsford joined Eastman Kodak Company.

Queens possess varied attributes

Scheduled throughout the year, queen contests varied both in type of competition and requirements for candidacy. Titles ranged from Homecoming, Barnwarmer, Cannonball and Circle K queens to fraternity sweethearts and dream girls.

Eligibility for many titles required more than beauty. Campus activities, high grades and a skit helped earn the Homecoming title.

Many queens earned points toward crowns in interviews with judges. Scholarship was also important since major contests required a 2.2 grade average. Rodeo and farm knowledge, as well as poise, was demanded of Barnwarmer and Chaparajos queens.

Judging methods differed with each contest. While students voted for Homecoming Queen, a professional photographer selected RP Queen.

Ag queen reigns at Barnwarmer; Chore Night tests agriculture skills

Crowning Jannette Robinson 1964 Ag Barnwarmer Queen at the annual Barnwarmer Dance climaxed a week planned by agriculture students.

Attired in cowboy boots and western jeans, the five finalists performed farm chores during Chore Night, which preceded the dance. The contestants drove tractors, milked goats, herded sheep, competed in a goat-tying contest and answered questions that concerned agriculture.

Approximately 500 persons attended the Barnwarmer Dance in the Union Ballroom. Klod and Kernel Klub won the award for selling the most dance tickets per member.

Miss Robinson represented Alpha Delta Pi. The other finalists were candidates from Putnam Hall, Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Forming a victory "V" on the football field, the women's Pep Club awaits the entrance of the team. Freshmen and sophomores comprise the bulk of the club.

Stimulating school spirit and arousing the enthusiasm of students, Willie the Wildcat, whose identity is secret, appears at each game with the cheerleaders.

Pepsters design cheering uniforms

Sporting uniforms which they designed, the cheerleaders led yells at football and basketball games. The squad used only two traditional cheers during the season. Gwen Woodard was head cheerleader for the group.

Pep Co-ordinating Council directed selection of the eight cheerleaders. Applications were accepted only from women who had belonged to Pep Club. The 150 women in Pep Club purchased new purple and white uniforms.

Band performs for Nebraskans

Cornhuskers at the Wildcat gridiron contest with the University of Nebraska watched the 105-member marching band perform in Lincoln. At two home games, the band hosted the University of Kansas and the Oklahoma State University bands. Headed by twelve K-Steppers and two twirlers, the marching band appeared at all home football games.

Members of the concert band played for a spring concert of contemporary American band music and at a commencement program. Following a winter musical in February, the 56-member concert band toured nine Northwestern Kansas cities.

Singers appear last in Auditorium

Last concert to be presented in the Auditorium, the Winter Concert of the Varsity Men's Glee Club was produced Jan. 11, four days before the structure burned. The men also presented a spring concert.

In a joint appearance with the Academy Glee Club, the varsity singers performed at the Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo. The men also sang on a four-day tour of Kansas and Denver, Colo.

Varsity Men's Glee Club's 78 members and Apollo Glee Club's 56 members represented the University's six colleges. Only six members were music education majors. James Hershberger directed the men. Bette Edwards and Sherri Keucher were accompanists.

With a song and a smile, the Sweet Adeline Quartet performs in All-Faith Chapel. As one of three ensembles, the quartet appears with Women's Glee Club.

Musicians sing in vocal concerts

Appearing in the Christmas Vespers and the "Messiah," A Cappella Choir also performed at 16 high schools on fall tour. Conducted by William Fischer, Schubert's "Mass in G Major" was a feature number at a campus concert.

Fifty-five appearances were made by Women's Glee Club, directed by Louis Sherman. Alumni associations and high schools sponsored concerts on a nine-city, April tour.

Glee club ensembles included the Ensemble Eight, which specialized in classics and show tunes, and the Coeds, who featured popular numbers. The Sweet Adelines sang as a barbershop quartet.

Oratorio Chorus joined A Cappella Choir and Women's Glee Club in Music Week concerts and shows.

Chess draws much deliberation from a player before he determines his move. Campus tournament winners can advance to regional and national contests.

Union provides recreation center

As recreation center of the University, the Union hosted regional game tournaments for Midwest schools. Open at 6:30 each morning, the Union was completed in 1956.

Card players and coffee drinkers made the State Room popular for study breaks. The Art Lounge, Main Lounge and Browsing Library provided areas for study, reading papers or listening to music.

Downstairs, the Union maintained 16 bowling alleys and billiard, pool, ping-pong and snooker tables. Friday night combos and folk singers increased use of the Dive.

Wildcat bowlers host visiting team at the Union's Tri-State Bowling Conference.

Wool squad wins American Royal

Competing against other Midwest teams, the wool judging team won the Intercollegiate Wool Judging Contest at the 1964 American Royal in Kansas City. Suzanne Beck, the national Miss Wool, presented an award to the team.

In judging at the National Western Livestock Show in Denver, Colo., the junior team placed first.

Wool judging consisted of two phases. Team members were required both to grade characteristics which affected the value of wool samples and to defend their decisions orally.

Soil Judging Team—Coach Orville W. Bidwell, James D. Lambley, Roland K. Krauss, Lloyd D. Moden, Carl W. Johnson.

Soil competition attracts judges

Only team to enter each National Intercollegiate Soil Judging Contest since contention began in 1961, the soil judging team competed again at the University of Wisconsin. At the 10-school intercollegiate meet, the men placed fifth. The judgers and a team from the University of Minnesota represented the western region of the north-central states in the competition.

During contests, team members judged soil depth, structure, texture, horizon, slope, water level, topography and presence of free carbonates.

Men rate grains in crop contests

Ranking sixth at both contests, the crops judging team competed at an international collegiate meet in Chicago, Ill. and a national contest in Kansas City, Mo. The men rated fifth in identification and seed analysis and sixth in commercial grading in Kansas City. The Chicago meet was connected with the International Livestock Exposition.

Selection of the three-man team was based on scholastic standings and knowledge of grain quality. The team judged in three crop phases: seed analysis, grain grading and identification of crop varieties, wheats and diseases. Ernest L. Mader coached the squad.

Feminine judge joins dairy team

For the first year, the dairy cattle judging team had a coed member. At the Hutchinson State Fair, the students ranked first against 12 regional judging squads.

Traveling to Iowa, the team earned eighteenth place among 33 teams at the World Dairy Cattle Congress. The coed team member, Nancy Tjaden, was fifth in Guernsey judging. In an international livestock exposition, the judges won ninth place among 17 entrants.

Meats Judging Team—Coach Don Krofp, Garry L. Keeler, Philip V. Mathews, Harold D. Engle, Micheal E. Dikeman, Ronald E. Jones, Willard E. Kindig.

Meat men enter American Royal

At the American Royal in Kansas City, the meats judging team ranked second out of 19 teams. The students earned first in pork judging and second in lamb judging. The team also entered meats judging contention at meets in Fort Worth, Tex. and Madison, Wis.

Dairy men meet collegiate judges

Placing in five divisions, the dairy products judging team ranked fifteenth in an international contest in Chicago, Ill. Entrants from 22 colleges in the U.S. and Canada judged dairy products on texture, flavor and body. While in Chicago, the team attended the annual meeting of the Milk Industry Foundation.

Livestock team finishes 64 years

Livestock judgers served on one of the top teams in the squad's 64-year history. As juniors, the men compiled a 3-0 record. While seniors, the judgers won eleventh at the American Royal in Kansas City and third at a livestock exposition in Chicago, Ill.

Advanced ROTC recruits officers

With 86 juniors as recruits, the advanced Reserve Officers' Training Corps enrolled its largest volunteer group since the Korean War. The Kansas Legislature considered converting the required two years to voluntary status.

Three two-year scholarships were awarded to distinguished sophomore men entering advanced ROTC.

Official military courtesy requires ROTC cadets to stand at attention for officers' inspection. Traditionally, military students walk to the left of officers.

Warm weather prevails as cadets practice for the spring ROTC drill. Although ROTC is compulsory to all freshman and sophomore men, the state legislature may make it voluntary. ROTC offers both Air Force and Army divisions.

Ag Student wins national citation

Entering its issues in competition, the Ag Student Magazine won national recognition from Agricultural College Magazines Associated. The publication, a laboratory project for agriculture students, was one of two magazines placing in all four categories.

Issues edited by Thayne Cozart were consistent winners in divisions for layout, design and popular presentation of technical material.

Lowell Brandner serves as adviser for the Ag Student Magazine for the twelfth year. The agricultural publication is a laboratory project edited by students.

Editor John Wulfmeyer meets deadlines for the K-State Engineer, printed from October to May. Engineering and architecture students edit the publication.

Engineer earns editorial award

Receiving a first place, national award for Best Editorials in All Issues, the K-State Engineer topped 51 schools for the second year.

Editor for first semester, Donald Williams, attended a convention of the Engineering College Magazine Association where the award was announced. John Wulfmeyer edited the magazine second semester.

With a circulation of 3,000, the monthly publication carried articles on the technical and non-technical sides of engineering and reports on current engineering trends.

Staffs broadcast, edit magazine

Extended radio programming for KSDB-FM was initiated by broadcasting from 8 a.m. until 11 p.m. Saturdays. Operated by 36 radio and television majors, KSDB-FM was directed by the speech department. Facilities in Nichols Gymnasium included radio turntables and recorders.

As student literary magazine, Touchstone was submitted to a student writing contest sponsored by the U. S. National Student Association and Saturday Review. Published twice annually for the sixth year, Touchstone contained short stories, poetry, essays and student art. Staff members conducted mail drives to English teachers.

With the help of Jeanette Johnson, Richard Wilson and Virginia Mansfield, Director Carl Rochat transmits campus news to the mass media. The office of University News relays campus press releases to most newspapers across Kansas.

As editor of the K-Stater, Dean Kenny compiles feature articles about University activities for the alumni magazine which has been published since 1951.

Editors, offices distribute news

Circulation of the K-Stater reached 11,000, and advertising was added for the first time. Dean Kenny replaced Helen Hostetter, who retired as alumni magazine editor.

Assisting Carl Rochat in relaying news to Kansas papers were a secretary, a graduate assistant and five journalism students. The Office of University News published a twice-monthly newsletter for the faculty.

Kenneth Thomas headed the Division of University Information which directed the Office of University News, the Office of Photographic Services and the K-Stater magazine.

Yearbook scores top rating again

Under the guidance of C. J. (Chief) Medlin, graduate manager of Student Publications since 1934, the 1964 Royal Purple won another All-American rating. The Associated Collegiate Press has named the yearbook All-American every year since 1935.

Retiring after spring semester, Chief has written two textbooks widely used by journalism classes and yearbook staffs.

Also judged by the Associated Collegiate Press, the Collegian received a first class rating for the spring semester. Jack Backer advised the newspaper staff.

After activity fee allotments, Student Publications faced a $21,600 cut in the apportionment it had asked for. As a result, each Royal Purple cost students three dollars. Copies of the Student Directory were sold for one dollar.

Honored by Sigma Delta Chi for more than 25 years service to the chapter, Chief Medlin serves as adviser to the men's professional journalism society.

Printing 3,000 copies an hour from a continuous web, the Goss Cox-o-Type newspaper press in the basement of Kedzie Hall prints 8,000 Collegians a day. The press is also capable of printing spot color for special editions.

Gretchen Nilson, 1964 Royal Purple editor, and C. J. Medlin, faculty adviser, inspect the yearbook which won the twenty-ninth consecutive All-American rating.

Becky Fitzgerald edits the Royal Purple, ranked All-American 29 straight times.

Yearbook tries Offset printing

Producing the first Royal Purple printed on an offset press, Editor Becky Fitzgerald added eight color pages. She selected pictures, planned layouts, approved copy and directed the printing.

Assistant Editor Carole Fry assigned and edited copy and scheduled pictures.

While Jane Waddle handled pages for campus organizations, Jane Clover produced the Greek section. Responsibility for the features section fell to Mike Charles. The underclass section was compiled by Elaine Rusch. Linda Hume edited the senior pages, and Mike Robinson covered sports.

Because of a $21,000 cut in the Publication apportionment, the cost was not entirely covered by the student activity fee. For the first time since 1936, students paid three dollars for each book.

As Royal Purple assistant editor, Carole Fry directs work of Royal Purple writers. The staff worked in an enlarged office to which six desks were added.

Journalists rank second nationally

News articles entered in the fifth annual William Randolph Hearst writing contest placed the department of journalism second among national journalism schools. Former Collegian editor, Chuck Powers, tied with a University of Tennessee student for first place individual honors.

Remodeling of Collegian editorial space featured several new bulletin boards and desks, repainted walls and a room partitioned off for the features staff. Collegian librarian, Sherryl Diller, instituted a new filing system.

Editors David D. Miller and Judith Halbleib supervise editorial policies. Miss Halbleib edited fall semester Collegians, while Miller edited spring issues.

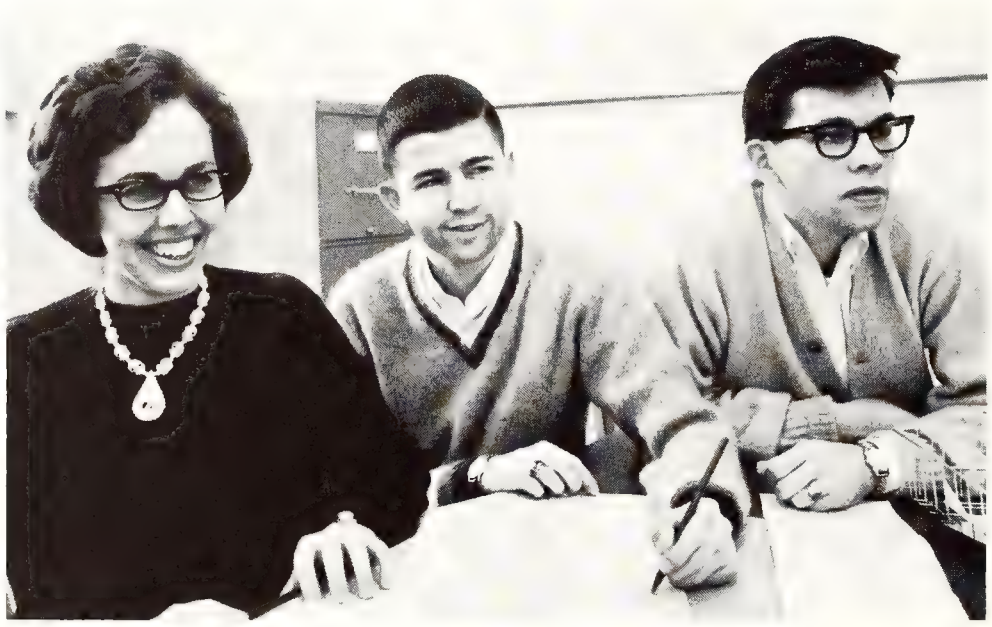
Collegian assistants help staff members prepare copy for daily publication in the University's paper, established in 1895. Assistants are Sherryl Diller, Leland K. Johnson, Janice Millenbruch, Joan Hayes, Jon Lowe and JoAnn Dodd.

Collegian staffers edit the paper for distribution at eight campus points.

Each summer, the Collegian staff publishes a weekly paper. Thomas Poole, James Sheetz, editor, Joan Hayes and Jan Jernigan produced seven Collegian issues.

Summer Business Manager Wayne Perk and assistant Warren Funk lay out ads for weekly Collegians.

Seven salesmen, directed by business manager Judith Cowdrey, Wayne Perk and Charles Fairman, solicit advertising for Collegians.



Serving as Royal Purple business assistants, Doug Morgenson and Margo Miller sell and collect advertising for the book's last section.

Utilizing facilities in the Collegian office, enlarged and painted during the summer, reporters and editors meet daily deadlines required to distribute the paper at noon. Seventeen editors and photographers compile the daily.

Collegian prints special editions

Increased advertising sales enabled the Collegian to publish a 32-page Homecoming edition. The business staff also sold advertising for a four-page shopping section in a pre-Christmas paper.

Under Business Manager Judith Cowdrey, the staff was expanded to nine members. Wayne Perk was summer business manager and later continued as assistant with Warren Funk and Charles Fairman.

Collegian staffers remade an eight-page issue when flames gutted the Auditorium. A dozen journalists produced the extra, with photos, between 2 and 7:30 a.m. despite a power failure and press breakdown.

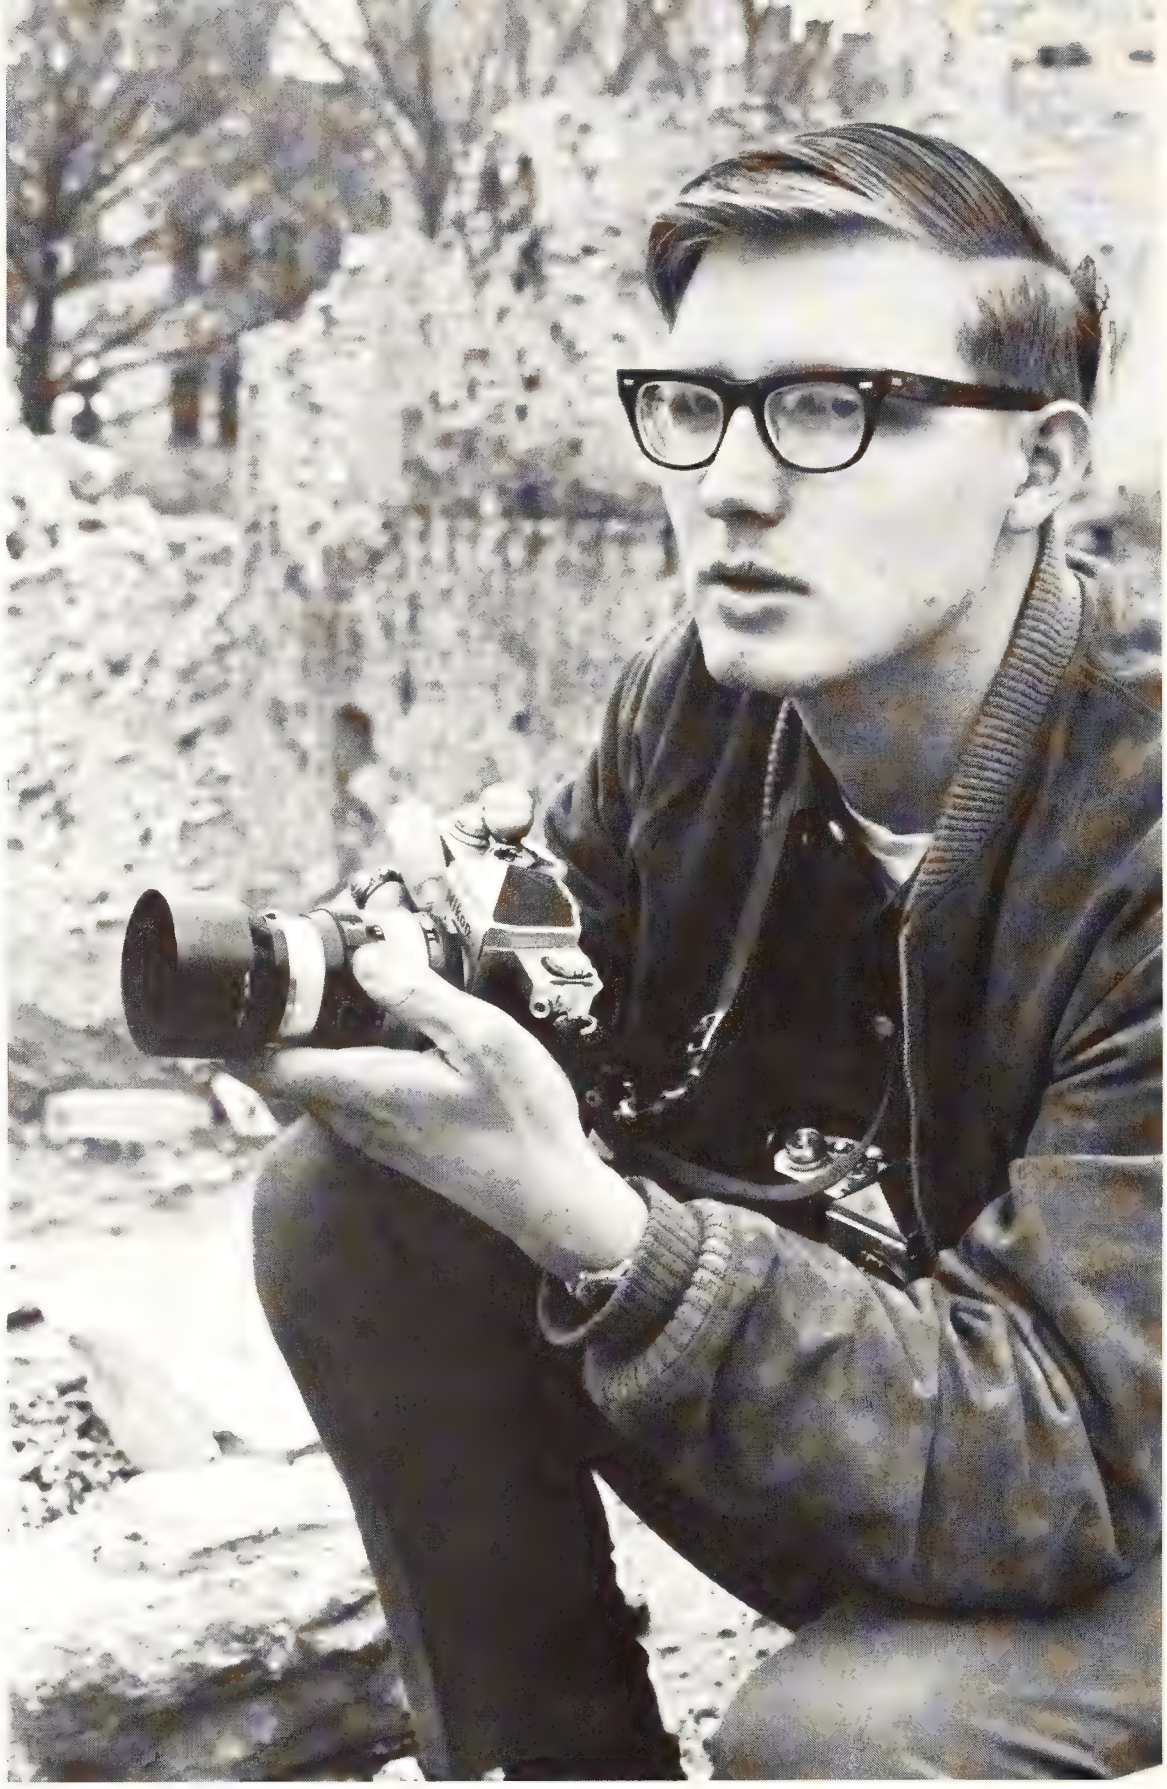
Working 2 to 7:30 a.m., Collegian staffers check type on the Auditorium fire story before rolling the scoop, morning issue off the press four hours early.

Journalists levy publications fees

Students paid for the Royal Purple and the Student Directory because of a cut in the 1964-1965 Student Publications apportionment. The charge marked the first year since 1935 that activity fees had not covered the Royal Purple cost and the first time the directory was not free.

Mark Miller, Royal Purple business manager, and Kathleen Dickey, Student Directory editor, collected three dollars for yearbooks and one dollar for University phone books.

Rick Solberg and David von Riesen shot Royal Purple activity pictures. Other photographers were Don Richards, Tim Fields, Paul Burch and Bob Hankins. Studio Royal took individual pictures for the housing and class sections.



Royal Purple photographer Rick Solberg covers athletics and campus programs.

Kathleen Dickey, who compiled student government information and lists of University officials and campus organizations, is Student Directory editor. The journalist conducted the sales campaign for the IBM-processed Student Directory.

Student Publications secretary Anita Johnson co-ordinates proofreaders and typists on the Royal Purple business staff.

Distributing Royal Purples, selling advertising and making ad page layouts are duties of Business Manager Mark Miller.

Varsity members, who placed third in a triangular meet with Purdue University and Michigan State University, race the freshman crew during practice at Tuttle Creek.

Rowing debuts as campus sport

Starting during spring 1964, rowing became the University's newest sport with nearby waters of Tuttle Creek providing facilities for the sport. Don Rose, night manager of the Union and former University of Wisconsin coxswain, put together the nine-man rowing crew.

For equipment, Purdue University donated a 30-year-old rowing shell and another racing shell was purchased by the team from a Canadian rowing club. Aggieville merchants furnished team uniforms for the new athletic squad.

Practice started during the fall for the rowing season to begin in March. The only Big Eight school to compete in the sport, the University joined eight other teams to establish the Mid-America Collegiate Rowing Association.

Sporting new purple and white, K-emblazoned team uniforms, the University rowing squad totes its shell to Tuttle Creek for a mid-winter rowing practice.

Although trees remain barren and the waters of the lake cove are still icy, men of the rowing team must still keep at it. The squad prepares to launch the 400-pound shell, which was a gift from the rowing team at Purdue University.

Rowers, who solicited $20 subscriptions from 150 persons for a boat to be named The 150, launch their racing shell.

Gently lowering their rowing shell into lake waters, racing enthusiasts complete launching of the 30-year-old boat.

Perfecting the form which took winning trophy in their first race with St. Thomas College and the University of Minnesota, rowers work out many hours on the water.

Before leaving for another country, the husband in "The Consul" bids a parting farewell to his wife, aunt and baby.

Slowly, the expressions in mirrors change as actors assume the faces of the characters they portray. Almost any age or personality type may evolve through the use of grease paint, hair sprays and other make-up aids.

Students present spring theatricals

Presented as the highlight of the spring 1964 Fine Arts Festival was "The Consul." A three-act musical drama, the play was presented by the departments of music, art and speech and the K-State Players.

"All in a Polyethelene Bag," a satirical review of society, appeared in the Union Little Theater. Playing to sell-out crowds, the production satirized celebrities from Barry Goldwater and southern senators to Romeo and Juliet and Julius Caesar.

In observance of the 400th anniversary of William Shakespeare's birth, the department of speech and the K-State Players presented "Readings from Shakespeare."

"Waiting for Godot," a controversial drama in two acts, was the last presentation of the 1964 spring season.

Gogo and Didi await Godot in "Waiting for Godot," acted by graduate students.

In "The Consul" a magician hypnotizes the characters and makes them dance around the consul's office. Presented as part of the eighth biennial Fine Arts Festival, "The Consul" was first produced by actors in Philadelphia, Pa.

Professor Deville's wife in "Marriage-Go-Round" learns of the relationship of Katrine and her husband on returning from a lecture.

While at a horse race in "My Fair Lady," Eliza Doolittle breaks a convention by swearing.

At Mrs. Higgins' tea, Eliza Doolittle gets her first chance to use the new speech taught her by Henry Higgins. To produce "My Fair Lady," longest running Broadway play in American theatrical history, $1,500 in costumes were rented.

Releasing Winnie the Pooh from the entrance to Rabbit's house requires the efforts of Piglet, Skunk, Mouse and Rabbit. "Winnie the Pooh," a Children's Theatre play, was shown in Junction City and at six schools in Manhattan.

Actors produce 'My Fair Lady'

Nearly three and one-half months were spent preparing for "My Fair Lady," "Winnie the Pooh" and "Marriage-Go-Round." More than 6,000 persons attended the three plays. Production of "My Fair Lady" during Homecoming required 150 Edwardian costumes and 145 cast members.

"Winnie the Pooh," the Children's Theatre production, toured area schools. More than 2,000 grade school children viewed the play.

"Marriage-Go-Round" was a hold-over hit from summer school. A four-member cast dramatized the Broadway comedy in the Purple Masque Theatre in East Stadium.

Katrine, a Swedish girl in "Marriage-Go-Round," comes to America to have an ideal child by the man she thinks is one of the most intelligent in the world.

Performers read narrative poem

"A West Wind Rises," a narrative poem by Bruce Cutler, was the first Readers' Theatre production. Six readers unfolded episodes of 1858 in historical sequence. The poem's author attended the opening night performance.

Two experimental one-act plays were presented at the Purple Masque Theatre in the spring. "No Exit," by Jean-Paul Sartre, dramatized the suffering of three persons in hell after death.

"A Phoenix Too Frequent," by Christopher Fry, presented a satirical view of heroic, idealistic love and outdated styles of writing plays and poetry.

Trapped in a private hell, student actors in "No Exit" describe the personal torments of sharing one small room with the perfect torturers—other people.

Toasting to life and death, the servant girl Doto salutes Tegeus-Chromis.

Actors appear in "A West Wind Rises," the first Readers' Theatre production. Readers' Theatre uses uncostumed actors to read drama, poetry and literature.

Cast members of "A West Wind Rises" line up to get Bruce Cutler's autograph. Cutler, author of the poem, taught on campus before going to Wichita State University.

Flames spew out of the Auditorium as the roof caves in at 1:57 a.m.

Night blaze destroys Auditorium, devours music department facilities

"Burn the Barn," a long-heard slogan, became a reality early Friday morning, Jan. 15, in a blaze that gutted the Auditorium. Campus firemen lost control of the fire, spotted by a watchman at 1:20 a.m., after flames reached the stage fly area.

Many music instruments, original compositions and scores were destroyed. The fire consumed 11 pianos, including a $7,000 grand piano, and more than 200 student instruments.

For 60 years the Auditorium was site of concerts, plays and convocations. The structure housed music department offices and classrooms. After the fire, music offices were set up in East Stadium.

Two students, arrested on charges of starting the Auditorium blaze, stood trial in Manhattan during February.

To raze the structure and replace equipment, the Kansas Legislature appropriated $252,849. The Board of Regents recommended an apportionment of almost $2.9 million for a new auditorium and music wing. Students set $10,000 as goal in a "Cats for Curtains" campaign for new curtains.

Smoldering bricks and charred timber remain as somber evidence of the early morning Auditorium fire. The interior of the fortress reveals a three-story cavern. Dedicated in 1904, the Auditorium seated about 2,000 persons.

A university is people—administrators, instructors and office workers—but most important, a university is students. They are the backbone of the University, youth seeking knowledge in the classroom, the laboratory or a midnight discussion. They are the University's past and future. Standing as the only campus statue, the solemn bust of William Alexander Harris symbolizes the role the more than 9,000 students may also play in the nation's future.

Cheerleaders run the football squad on the field at the game with the University of Missouri. As well as cheering at home games, the eight women traveled with the Wildcats to four out-of-state contests in new uniforms they designed.

Underclassmen possess wide cultural viewpoint

Students came to the University from throughout the world, with 66 nations represented on campus. Undergraduates included students from China, Southern Rhodesia, Lebanon, Syria and Korea.

But undergraduates came from the 50 states of the Union, too. From many backgrounds they came to study and prepare for careers they would undertake on graduation. Here they grew intellectually and socially.

A record freshman class of 2,691 joined the ranks of 6,420 underclassmen during the fall. While the sophomore class numbered 2,029, the junior total dropped to 1,700.

Wildcat athletics attract students, Manhattanites and out-of-town visitors to the Field House and Memorial Stadium.

Another school day ends and students amble home for dinner at sororities and apartments northwest of the campus.

Underclassmen: Abb-And

Second Row: Aberle, Stephen J; Sabetha, Sophomore in Agriculture. Abersold, Patricia A; Ottawa, Sophomore in Foods and Nutrition. Abmeyer, Beverly J; Topeka, Junior in Humanities. Abshire, Michael; Manhattan, Freshman in Electrical Engineering.

Third Row: Achenbach, Charleen; Wichita, Freshman in Home Economics and Nursing. Ackerman, Cheryl A; Edson, Sophomore in Elementary Education. Ackerman, Grant E; Leavenworth, Freshman in Pre-Veterinary Medicine. Adams, Alice M; Elk Falls, Sophomore in Home Economics.

Bottom Row; Albright, Clyde C; Fort Scott, Freshman in Agriculture. Albright, Sheryl K; Delia, Freshman in Elementary Education. Alderman, Susan J; Ottawa, Junior in Pre-Veterinary Medicine. Alexander, Albert J; Burlington, Freshman in Nuclear Engineering.

Third Row: Allen, Judith; Wichita, Junior in Elementary Education. Allen, Larry E; Hugoton, Junior in General. Allen, Marilyn J; Wichita, Freshman in Home Economics and Liberal Arts. Allen, Marjorie C; Abilene, Junior in Family and Child Development.

IN RETROSPECT . . .

The 1965 Royal Purple is now completed, after a long year of hard work on the part of many people, and the finished Royal Purple belongs to the students of Kansas State University; it is a record of the people, places and things of their 1965 school year. Although more people than it is possible to mention exerted time and effort on the production of this book, I would like to extend a personal thank you to Royal Purple Adviser C. J. (Chief) Medlin for his never-ending help, advice and patience; to the members of my editorial staff for their hard work and team effort; to Mark Miller, business manager, and his staff for their cooperation; to photographers Rick Solberg and David von Riesen for their campus coverage; to Don Richards and von Riesen for their color pictures; to Lawrence Blaker for his excellent advice and work on Royal Purple Queen Pictures; to the Studio Royal for class pictures; to the University Photographers for organization pictures; to Frank Wright and the people of American Yearbook Co., Topeka, for their assistance and advice; to the S. K. Smith Company, Chicago, for the covers; to Anita Johnson, student publication secretary; and to the Royal Purple office staff. I would also like to extend my grateful thanks to Terry Fitzgerald for two years of patience and help.
